

FOIL SECOND ESCAPE PLOT AT JOLIET

500 CONVICTS FIGHT GUARDS IN PRISON ROW

Prisoners Angered When Warden Bars Visitors to Restrict Smuggling

16 SENT TO HOSPITAL

Riot Quelled With Shotguns and Tear Bombs in Alabama Penitentiary

Montgomery, Ala.—(AP)—A bloody battle was waged in Kilby prison Sunday night by 500 prisoners who chose the supper hours to rebel against a tightening of their privileges. None escaped, but 16 were sent to the hospital.

After two hours of warfare in one great corridor inside the main building, guards quelled the riot with shotguns and tear bombs, after shooting four prisoners, and putting 12 others out of the fight with blows from broken furniture.

Warden Shirely, informed that firearms, narcotics and whisky were being smuggled to prisoners, had ordered visitors barred from the prison enclosure and restricted to reception rooms.

Loud talking burst into disorder as guards approached the prisoners to escort them from the corridor to their cells. A burly prisoner shouted to guards from the milling crowd that the men would not return to cells or work again until the warden rescinded his orders regarding restrictions on visits. Guards closed in and the fight began.

HURL FURNITURE
Hurling furniture torn from the dining hall, Sunday school books obtained from rooms on the second floor, fighting broke out, and the snarling prisoners forced guards to retreat. Other guards armed with shotguns and tear bombs, appeared before prisoners could force their way through the long corridor. Four men were shot. They were regarded as the leaders.

Beating prisoners, cowed by tear gas, clanking each other in confusion, picked out windows. Walter Smith was sent to the hospital with leg arteries severed by broken glass. Eleven others suffered cuts and bruises.

When quiet had been restored, guards put ten men in the operation of the demonstration in solitary confinement pending investigation.

CHARGE FAHRBACH WITH MANSLAUGHTER

John A. Lonsdorf, District Attorney, Issues Warrant Monday Morning

A warrant for the arrest of George Fahrbach, 631 First-st., Menasha, charging manslaughter, was issued Monday morning by John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney. It was turned over to Chief George T. Trim, who gave it to the Menasha police department to serve.

Fahrbach, driving a Ford coupe, a week ago last Saturday evening struck Miss Gertrude Becher, 17-year-old town of Greenville, at the corner of S. Cherry-st. and W. Prospect-ave, fatally injuring her. She died the following Monday morning from a fractured skull.

A coroner's jury Thursday afternoon held that Fahrbach did not use necessary precaution in the operation of his automobile, and that he was negligent. Besides Fahrbach, there were three young men in the car with him.

In the warrant issued by the district attorney it is charged that "Fahrbach did feloniously and culpably negligently kill and slay one Gertrude Becher."

Besides manslaughter, he also is charged with reckless driving and speeding. John E. Becher, Greenville, father of the dead girl, is complainant.

MOROCCAN TRIBAL CHIEFTAN SWIPES AVIATOR'S PAJAMAS

Paris—(AP)—Clad in the silk pajamas of Major Tadeo Larre-Borges Uruguay flier, the chief of the Moroccan tribesmen who captured him and his three companions acted as referee of feats of strength and boxing matches among his followers and awarded as prizes to winners trinkets taken from the captives.

Not so, however, with the money. The wily chief kept for himself all gold, silver and bank notes found on the prisoners. But he was magnanimous with the checks, book of Larre-Borges. He tore checks out and distributed them among tribesmen.

Dispatches from the Spanish camp at Casa Blanca, Morocco, where the aviators have arrived from Cape Jubi, describe their experiences after their plane on an attempted flight from the African coast to Uruguay was wrecked 300 yards from shore.

FOURTH VICTIM IS CLAIMED BY GUNMEN IN BOOZE WARFARE

Another Chieftan of Notorious Genna Liqueur Band Is Shot to Death

Chicago—(AP)—Gangland's mysterious vengeance, striking swiftly for the fourth time within 48 hours, has overtaken another chieftain of the notorious and once powerful Genna liquor band.

Alfonso Fiori, reputed bootlegger, blackhand extortionist and gun-point collector for the Gennas, was found Sunday riddled with bullets in a passageway beside an inn on the west side. Detectives, trying to run down the assassins of Lefty Konell and Alfie Big Hayes, Huback, shot to death Friday midnight, were hastily diverted to the new investigation police. They announced they had eleven yet to the slayer of Benjamin Schneider, shot to death in front of his north side home a few hours before the bodies of Konell and Huback were found. They were searching for some possible link between the four slayings, the first in the ranks of gangland since a peace pact was agreed to last fall. The ominous silence of gangland surrounded the Fiori slaying.

DEATH IS MYSTERY
"We probably never will know who did this," said Sergeant Edward Collopy, leading investigation. "He has simply gone the fate of all gangsters."

A search for Dominick Sacca, roadhouse owner near where place the body was found, was begun after the police found signs of a struggle within the roadhouse, as a most likely lead.

The police connect the recent killings with a raid on a government liquor warehouse here last week when they captured four other gangsters who were siphoning liquor. Reprisals were hinted at that time.

3 MORE BANKS CLOSE DOORS IN FLORIDA

Fourth West Palm Beach Institution Meets Run by Depositors

West Palm Beach, Fla.—(AP)—Three Palm Beach-co banks failed to open their doors Monday, while another local financial institution sought to stave off a severe run.

The Farmers Bank and Trust company of West Palm Beach, one of the largest banks in this section, did not open Monday following a midnight announcement by T. T. Reese, its president that the closing of two local banks and a Palm Beach bank last Tuesday had precipitated the action.

Simultaneously the First of National bank of Lake Worth, and the Ocean City bank of Delray, did not open Monday morning. No reasons for their separate actions were made public. T. C. Hawkins, state bank examiner, assumed charge of the Delray institution. The closing at Lake Worth left that city without a bank.

LONG LINE WAITS
A long line of men and women braved a pelting intermittent rain Monday morning in a determined run on the Citizens bank of West Palm Beach.

A sizeable crowd started forming an hour before its usual opening time and was augmented by the reports that the Farmers bank had not been open. The line stretched solid almost a block and a half. Much excitement prevailed while friends of the bank sought to talk with each person in line in an attempt to influence all against withdrawal of funds.

The line remained intact through a hard shower. The line of patrons, Miami of truck at 12:05 with twelve sacks of paper currency for the Citizens bank prompted announcement by bank officials that the bank intended to remain open until 6 o'clock Monday night to meet every demand of depositors. The line of patrons had not dwindled, and interested crowds continued to surge past the corner.

The Citizens bank, together with the Farmers bank last week, weathered the determined runs.

DRUNKEN DRIVER FINED $50, COSTS

Andrew Derga Is Forbidden to Use His Automobile for Next Six Months

The second drunken driver to be arrested in Appleton this year Monday morning was fined $50 and costs of $4.20 and forbidden the use of his automobile for six months by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court.

He was Andrew Derga, who police say lives at 205 N. Richmond-st. He pleaded guilty.

He was arrested at 7 o'clock Sunday evening on N. Durkeest by Officers F. F. Arnold and Albert P. Deltgen.

Shortly before his arrest he ran into the rear of a Black and White taxi cab owned by Max Meyers. It was reported to police. The cab was parked in front of the owner's garage. Derga was driving north. The gas tank of the cab was dented and left rear fender and tire rack were bent.

2 DRUNKEN DRIVERS SINCE JAN. 1

His only reference to the attack upon him was: "None of the monarchist ex-officers in the theatre would dare to come up. They sent a woman."

The speaker taunted monarchists and accused followers of Grand Duke Cyril of being "the first to come to us wearing a red emblem and swearing allegiance to the revolution."

Communists he assailed with equal fervor as "those who stole the freedom of the Russian people."

"Today Russia stands at the crossroads," he shouted. "Two ways are open to her: First that of Bonapartism and second that of political democracy. Unless Bolshevism surrenders voluntarily, he said, the Russian people will gain their freedom by force of arms."

USES RAILROAD FOR BED, DODGES DEATH AND LANDS IN JAIL

Madison—(AP)—Selecting a railroad track on which to sleep, Ralph Phillips was snatched from peaceful slumber a few moments before a Northwestern passenger train rumbled by.

Phillips was using the rails for a pillow and the ties as a mattress when a road crew came across him just in time. He spent the remainder of his sleep period in jail.

VARIOUS CLAIMS IN NEVADA GOLD REGION MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

Weepah Electrified by Discovery of Rich Surface Deposits of Prospector

Tonopah, Nev.—(AP)—The spectre of trouble over duplication of filing on placer and lode claims appeared at Weepah Monday as the gold lode camp found itself potentially twice as rich as was first supposed.

Weepah was electrified Sunday by the discovery of rich surface deposits by a red-shirted prospector who came quietly back to camp after a day of work in the hills. Although he at first attempted secrecy, he failed miserably and word soon spread. He had found gravel worth about $50 a pound. Prospectors and even Sunday visitors competed in races over the nearby hills to locate claims or at least fill their pockets with gold-laden sand.

The presence of surface values holds possibility of trouble for under state law, locators may file placer claims on areas already staked out for quartz or lode mining. This means two classes of claims may be filed on one area. The placer miner is entitled to all gravel down to the regular lode.

LOOK FOR TROUBLE
Thus far only lode claims have been filed. The double system never has been tried in this state, and old timers say there will be trouble if both placer and lode claims are allowed.

Ed McKelvie, discoverer of the surface gold, refused to say where he made his find, because he was uncertain as to the legal status of the claim involved.

Thus far the Weepah camp, which is but ten days old, has collected a new type of gold seek. There has been no disorder and no disputes. The rain-bow chasers of today are smooth-tongued, polite and good-natured.

More color was added when an itinerant gambler showed up with a wad of green baize cloth and a pair of dice and set up his layout in front of his tent. He said his name was "Honest Jim" and was too modest to give any other.

Dances hall girls have appeared in number for the first time. They dart here and there in limousines, wearing mackinaws. Many of them have claims, some of which were staked out for them within eight hours after news of the strike hit Tonopah.

LENROOT, FREE, FEELS HAPPY AS YOUNG BOY

Milwaukee—(AP)—Feeling "Like a boy on a vacation now that he is a private citizen," former Senator Irvine Lenroot came to Milwaukee Monday for a visit and a couple of speeches. He will address the civic meeting city Women's club Monday and speak at the Rotary club Tuesday.

Queried concerning the future presidential race, Mr. Lenroot said that "it looks like Frank O. Lowden will be a candidate." Mr. Lenroot said that if the Republican National convention were being held at this time and the president sought renomination, "Mr. Coolidge would be the nominee."

As to the president seeking a third term, Mr. Lenroot said, "I can't throw my light on that subject. I do not know that Mr. Coolidge has made up his own mind about that. He consults with himself."

78 PROPERTY OWNERS VOTE ON PAVING TYPE

Only 78 of 311 property owners living on streets to be paved this year had voted up to Monday noon in the special election being conducted at the city hall to determine the type of pavement the citizens desire. The balloting will continue until 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

HINT TITUS IS READY TO QUIT HIS COMMITTEE

Unofficial Statement Indicates Senator May Resign to Settle Dispute

Madison—(AP)—Hope of peace in the legislative finance committee which has been idle for two weeks because of the disagreement on Chairman Titus' vote against James A. Borden as secretary of the board of public affairs, appeared brightened Monday.

While few of the members of the committee were in the halls, no legislative session being scheduled until Monday night, when the assembly meets, those who were in the capitol looked upon the situation optimistically.

It was said unofficially that "some move may be made by the members of the committee whereby Senator Titus may gracefully leave the committee."

RESIGNATION IS CAUSE
The resignation of the chairman has been the bone of contention in the executive committee meetings. Senator Titus maintaining that he will not resign, however.

Another optimistic omen was the printing in the calendar of committee meetings for the week, of a schedule of bills to be heard by the finance committee Wednesday. Inasmuch as no hearings were held after the committee strike started, the new bulletin was taken as an indication that there were prospects of settlement of the controversy to such an extent at least that the committee might again hear those appearing in favor or against bills.

None of the committee members would definitely confirm or deny the rumor that Senator Titus would resign and the chairman himself was not in the city.

REFUSE REQUEST IN SUIT AGAINST FORD

Judge Denies Sapiro Right to Inject Paragraph in Declaration

Detroit—(AP)—A request by counsel for Aaron Sapiro to be permitted to inject a new paragraph in Sapiro's declaration in his $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford was denied by Judge Fred M. Raymond in United States District court here Monday.

William Henry Gallagher, counsel for Sapiro, said the new paragraph set forth that because of previous publications of the Dearborn Independent the term "Jew" as used in 29 articles alleged to contain libel was term of scorn. Judge Raymond held the paragraph brought no new charges of libel but was intended to widen the scope of evidence which would be admitted.

Counsel for Mr. Ford objected strenuously to the inclusion of the paragraph saying it would change the whole issue of the case.

ISSE ON SAPIRO
Mr. Gallagher argued the paragraph, added to the declaration but was only an interpretation. To this Stewart Hanel of Ford counsel, replied there was no question in the case of a Jewish conspiracy but that the issue was Mr. Sapiro and his activities.

"If Mr. Gallagher's motion is granted we would have to ask for a long continuance to study the matter," said James A. Reed of Missouri, heading the Ford counsel. "We admit we said Mr. Sapiro was a Jew, but we contend it was no reflection on him to call him a Jew. We are not attacking the Jewish race."

Mr. Gallagher replied that in the articles in the Dearborn Independent Mr. Sapiro was referred to as a member of "organized Jewry" and "organized international Jewry."

Sapiro is well known in Wisconsin having helped organize the Northern Wisconsin Tobacco pool.

A number of cases besides those listed on the calendar probably will be disposed of at this session, according to Judge Werner.

He Helped Shorten War, But Dies Almost Unknown

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1927, By Post Pub. Co.

New York—Leland Laflin Summers, perhaps the greatest figure in industrial localization during the world war, died at his home on Long Island. No crowds are gathered outside to shed tears as they did when Rudolph Valentino passed away. Only a few friends who knew of the war service rendered by Mr. Summers gathered to pay their final tribute to him. He was one of those "dollar a year men," one of that group which has been so widely misunderstood and misrepresented.

Leland Summers helped to shorten the war. Many men alive today owe their opportunities to his genius. It was Mr. Summers who behind the scenes steered President Wilson in coordinating the munitions of war. As chief aide to Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board, Mr. Summers brought technical knowledge to the councils of the allies which made it possible for the United States quickly to bring its enormous resources to bear in a few months that were to see the breakdown of German morale.

KNOW SOURCES OF MATERIAL
Mr. Summers knew the sources of raw material and the economic factors which enabled the American government to reach out to the four corners of the world or the essentials necessary to build up a reservoir of war supplies unparalleled in history.

Like many another dollar a year man, Mr. Summers never got into the newspapers. Few of the correspondents knew him. He shunned publicity. Foreign governments learned indirectly of his great service and bestowed upon him their highest decorations. He was an engineer who gave his life to the study of the economic forces of the world.

His friends believe that he never fully recovered from the strain of war work. Nearly ten years have passed since the hectic war days in Washington and many a man gave his energies at that time to the technical side of the war has passed on. None, however, was as inconspicuous as Leland Summers who may truly be said to have contributed as much as any single man to the success of the allied cause.

RENEW AGREEMENT ON LAKE WINNEBAGO

Government Gives O. K. to Regulate Water Level for Another Year

Oshkosh—(AP)—An agreement regulating the level of Lake Winnebago, under which a portion of the Fox River valley is protected from floods has been renewed for another year by the federal government. George Williams, attorney for the Association for the Relief of High Water, was advised to this effect Monday by Major John J. Kingman, district engineer, Milwaukee.

Under the agreement, which has been in effect since 1923, the maximum level of the lake is 15 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam. It protects from flood, the territory from Neenah to the head of the Portage lake.

According to Allen H. Tripp, head of the association, the rest of the Fox River valley cannot be protected until the dam now under construction at Shawano is completed and another dam is built at Leeman on the Wolf river.

TWO CONVICTS ARE CAPTURED AFTER BREAK

Kick Several Boards from Fence Surrounding Penitentiary Quarry

ARREST MEXICAN'S LOVER

Charge Sweetheart Helped Three Murderers Escape Will-go Jail

Joliet, Ill.—(AP)—On the heels of three fellow convicts who escaped in a sensational jail break here Saturday, two prisoners kicked several boards from the high fence surrounding the state penitentiary stone quarry Monday and made a break for liberty. They were captured however, before they had gone far.

A guard turned his back for a moment on Leonardo Russo, serving a one to ten year sentence for larceny, and Joseph Pasquale, doing a one to twenty year robbery sentence and they made the attempt to escape. Although they succeeded in getting through the high fence, they were quickly run down.

STATE WILL QUIT BUYING AUTOS FOR EMPLOYEES--BALLARD

Present System Is Expensive and Unsatisfactory, Badger Official Says

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin is to stop buying or furnishing cars for its inspectors and other traveling representatives. This was the statement made Monday by C. B. Ballard, superintendent of public property. He said that the announcement was made with the approval of Governor Zimmerman.

"We have seen enough to become convinced that the sooner we get rid of state-owned cars driven by inspectors, etc., the better it will be for all concerned," Mr. Ballard said. "The man driving a state-owned car is naturally not very careful of it as it is not his own; he is less economical with tires, gasoline and repairs. In other ways too the present system is unsatisfactory. We find that on many occasions state-owned cars are used for private hunting trips, weekend jaunts and other purposes entirely at those pertaining to state business."

ALLOWANCE FOR UPKEEP
"Our idea is to try to work out some system whereby we can allow the fellows who are on the road for the state a monthly allowance for upkeep of his own car. This amount could be figured from previous reports of expenses, figuring in a certain amount for depreciation. The figures would be on the basis of the inspector operating a Ford. If they went then to buy higher priced cars and operate them themselves it is their lookout. The state should not buy a new car any kind of a car he desires and pay all of the expenses on the car. That opens the way for more or less graft."

Mr. Ballard said that conservation commission, where $21,000 was spent on purchase or upkeep of 57 cars before July 1, 1926, was a waste of money and the dairy and food commission, where another large group of state cars are maintained, were in sympathy with the move to have the inspectors and others own their own machines.

Wauwatosa Man Fined For Larceny As Bailie

P. L. Parker, Wauwatosa, experienced a change of heart in municipal court Monday morning. When arraigned on a charge of larceny as bailie, he pleaded not guilty, but returned to the courtroom a few minutes later and changed his plea to guilty. He was fined $10 and costs of $2.45.

While in Appleton about four months ago, he went to the Willard Battery station to have his battery repaired, and took one of the station batteries with him to use until his own was ready for use again. He failed to return with the station battery, however, according to police.

Chief George T. Trim, and Officers Albert P. Deltgen and Carl Radtke went to Wauwatosa Saturday and brought Parker back to Appleton.

STATE REVISING BUILDING CODE, COMMISSION SAYS

Process Marks First Revision Since 1918, Records Indicate

Madison — (AP) — Revision of the state's building code for the first time since 1918 is now in process, according to a report of the industrial commission.

Changes in building methods and the development of new materials comprise the steps being taken by the commission to insure "practicable and needed regulations."

Additions and amendments to certain building requirements have been incorporated since that date, there have been no general changes for nine years. Originally the building code was prepared by the commission and its advisory committee, and was open to solicited public criticisms and suggestions for many months.

In addition to general changes five revisions are being considered, a report from the commission said.

"The quality of concrete," it said, "is very much dependent not only on the nature of the material, but on the durability, cleanliness and size gradation of the sand, gravel or other aggregate. Adoption of minimum standards of quality for concrete aggregates, including sand, gravel, crushed stone, etc., will eliminate much delay and trouble and reduce the cost appreciably."

"Structures requiring extensive reinforced concrete work are usually designed by a competent engineer, and as the danger of unclean or improperly graded material is understood, minimum specifications properly take care of the feature. The building code at present does not contain any minimum requirements which apply to reinforced concrete, except by reference to good practice. It is hoped that in the adoption of minimum standards for reinforced concrete design and construction, the code will be secured a greater safety, uniformity and therefore economy in construction."

"Appropriate use of steel joist was recognized in an amendment to the building code in 1921. It is hoped to establish on the basis of laboratory tests and past field observations a reasonable limitation on the use of steel joists in buildings and to standardize steel joist construction from the standpoint of strength, durability, fire protection and appropriate use."

STATE SENATE FACES HEAVIEST SCHEDULE

Madison — (AP) — The spring drive is on in the senate. Restless over the weekend and a strenuous week the senators arrive Tuesday facing the heaviest schedule listed to date.

The joint resolution introduced by Assemblyman Beggs, which would prohibit sheriffs from succeeding themselves more than once, will be brought up for passage. A roll call will be taken.

This bill has been defended in the senate by Senator Smith, as the only measure which might stop the building up of "powerful political machines within sheriff's offices."

In addition to this measure, eight other bills are up for passage, two bills which may be ordered to a third reading and 15 bills and resolutions ready for engrossment.

Senator Casperson's joint resolution memorializing Congress to submit to arbitration the Mexican and Nicaraguan controversies also will be considered. The committee on state and local government has recommended adoption.

Another joint resolution, introduced by Assemblyman Edwards, expressing the appreciation of the Wisconsin legislature to the Wisconsin Congressional delegation for its services in having enacted a federal dairy law, will be considered. Adoption has been recommended by the committee on agriculture and labor, Senator Cashman, Denmark, dissenting.

HALF OF ACREAGE IN DRAINAGE AREAS IS LIABLE TO TAX SALE

Extra Burden Placed on Owners in 12 Districts by Drainage Assessments

Madison — (AP) — Nearly half of the 12 drainage districts in eight Wisconsin counties, aggregating 200,000 acres, are subject to tax deeds, a report of the state engineering department reveals.

The report explains that the percentage of delinquency is no higher than it is in many townships out of cut-over land in northern Wisconsin, but it is more serious because of a drainage tax in addition to the general property tax against these lands.

Counties comprising the district are Juneau, Jackson, Wood, Adams, Portage, Monroe, Marathon and Clark.

"More than half of the construction costs of outlet ditches has been paid," the report stated, "but the last half is more difficult to pay than the first."

"The story of these drainage districts is a long and sad one and we cannot go into details in this report, but brief the owners of large blocks of these lands from 15 to 25 years ago drained more of these lands than they had the financial means to operate. These promoters lost their money with the agricultural depression that came about 1920 and the taxes have not been paid since. Still more unfortunate is the plight of the 350 settlers that are scattered through these districts. They are farming successfully in many cases, but the sparse settlement makes it expensive to maintain roads and schools. Furthermore, last spring the supreme court held that the drainage taxes on the delinquent lands. It would drive many of them away if the bond holders enforce this decision."

"The penalties accumulated on the delinquent taxes are so great that no sane man will take a tax deed to any of it under existing conditions, and the situation will grow worse from year to year unless the deadlock is broken by some relief measure."

A constructive suggestion would be to let these districts reorganize as conservation districts, the counties taking deed to the delinquent lands by assuming their share of the bonded indebtedness with interests, but not principal, on the county plant trees on those lands and hold them as a county forest and game preserve.

ADVERTISERS TO STRESS INTENSIFIED SELLING

Milwaukee — (AP) — More intensified effort in merchandising, selling and advertising in order to insure gains in the present highly competitive 1927 market will be strongly urged at the annual convention of the sixth district of the International Advertising Association March 23 and 24. The sixth district includes Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky.

Charles C. Younggreen, Milwaukee, chairman of the sixth district will preside. Wisconsin's chief executive, Governor Fred R. Zimmerman will be the principal speaker at a luncheon which will open the sessions. His subject will be "Advertising from the Viewpoint of Government," in which he will discuss pending legislation in Wisconsin affecting advertising.

E. J. Mehrens of the McGraw Hill publications, New York, will speak on industrial advertising, while Stephen Bolles, editor of the Janesville Gazette will discuss advertising in the small town. Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas and newspaper publisher, will talk on "The Business Man in Washington."

POSTPONE MEETING TO PLAN BOY CONFERENCE

A meeting which was to have been held at the Appleton Y. M. C. A. Saturday to prepare plans for a district boys' work conference in April or May was postponed by Ray W. Powers, extension secretary of the Wisconsin association in charge of high school work. Mr. Powers was to lead the conference, assisted by Earl Dome, boys' work secretary of the Green Bay association, and John W. Pugh, local boys' work secretary. A group of boys and laymen of the Fox River valley district including Oshkosh, Green Bay, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and other smaller places was to be present.

Not only was Saturday's meeting called off but Mr. Powers announced that the conference also may be cancelled because of many conflicting spring. As it is fairly certain that the annual state boys' work conference will be held in this district, it is likely that the district conference will be cancelled, Mr. Pugh said. Appleton and Green Bay are the favored cities for the major boys' gathering of the year, the annual boys' work conference. V. H. "Dad" Wones of Milwaukee, state boys' work secretary, will be in Appleton next week to confer with the local boys' work committee and representatives of Appleton churches in regard to holding the conference here.

Maps Replace Forked Hazel Twig To Find Water Supply

Madison — (AP) — The forked hazel twig which even today is relied upon by the superstitious to locate water supplies has been replaced among the informed by geological maps, cross sections, and long glass tubes showing samples of strata through which good water wells have been drilled.

The "water witch" manipulator of the hazel twig has given way in Wisconsin to F. T. Thwaites, water supply expert of the State Geological survey, who for 15 years has been collecting water well logs, the records of formations through which wells have been drilled and studying the geology of the state with reference to water supplies until he has become a guide for the water well drillers of the state.

Mr. Thwaites can predict with reasonable accuracy the depths at which water will be found in any region of Wisconsin, and the quality of water in each stratum. He can advise methods

WOULD DECREASE PAVEMENT WIDTH ON WISCONSIN- AVE

Property Owners Signing Petition to Present to Common Council

Property owners on Wisconsin-ave are circulating a petition asking the common council to reduce the width of the proposed pavement on that street from 37 to 28 feet, provided county aid is not available, according to Mayor A. C. Tule. The petition will be presented to the council Wednesday evening when property owners will be asked to discuss paving and paving materials with the aldermen.

A meeting of Wisconsin-ave residents was held Friday evening, according to Mayor Tule, and the citizens decided they would not favor paying for 37 feet of pavement without county aid. The county, it is said, has no funds available for road work. It is not likely, according to the mayor, that any county aid will be extended on this project.

HEILIG TO OPPOSE BILL ON SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

Herb Heilig, director of the Appleton Vocational school and president of the Wisconsin State Vocational Directors' association, will oppose a proposed bill to change the compulsory school attendance law at a hearing at Madison Thursday. The Legislative joint committee will conduct the hearing. The proposed bill would lower the age limit and allow boys and girls to leave school at an earlier age.

The St. Patrick card party and tea for the benefit of St. Elizabeth club will be held at the Conway hotel on Wednesday, March 16. Supper will be served at 5 o'clock sharp.

MOTORIST STRIKES MAN, SPEEDS AWAY

Fred Schabo Is Left Lying in Ditch With Fractured Leg

Police Monday were searching for a "hit-and-run" motorist who struck Fred Schabo, Appleton, on E. Wisconsin-ave at 8:30 Sunday night, and sped away, leaving him lying in the ditch with a fractured leg. He was found about an hour later by a pedestrian, who informed police of the accident. The injured man was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Mr. Schabo, a teamster, was on his way home from work. Although there were no witnesses to the accident, it is believed he was walking east when an automobile, headed in the same direction, hit him. He was hurled into the ditch on the side of the road and lay there for fully an hour before help arrived.

No description of the automobile is available.

A MILE and a QUARTER of MUSIC!

If you could unravel the music-groove on Thomas A. Edison's new 40-minute record it would be a mile and a quarter in length. No larger size than ordinary short-playing records. The phonograph wizard has succeeded in getting 400 grooves into one inch of record—twice as much as the ordinary record. Reproduced by the usual methods, a record of the same amount of music would be as big as a good-size dining table. These New Edison records contain the same music that formerly required an entire album of records and cuts the cost of phonograph music more than half. No jumping up to change records. Played only on the New Edison Long-Playing Phonograph, the latest and one of the greatest inventions of Thomas A. Edison. Free demonstrations of the new phonograph and records, at

COUNTY UNDERTAKES ONLY THREE PAYING PROJECTS THIS YEAR

Remainder of Program Planned Last November Will Be Dropped

Only three projects included on the highway improvement program adopted by the county board last fall will be carried out this year, it is reported at the county highway commissioner's office.

A stretch of approximately 3 1/2 miles on state trunk highway 76, between Greenville and Stephentown, will be paved, the cost to be financed by the $100,000 bond issue authorized by the board.

Approximately 1 1/2 miles will be paved on highway 18, west of Dale.

Pavement also will be laid on highway 28 from the junction with highway 76 south to the Winnebago-CO line.

The last project will be paid from the county's share of the gasoline and weight tax.

The 2-mill tax on the county's valuation will give the highway commission $112,665.88, none of which will be used for paving purposes. Maintenance and grading of roads, and construction of several bridges, will use up this sum.

RELOCATE ROADS

Maintenance of the county trunk highway system will use up most of the 2-mill tax, $130,000 being required for this purpose, it is estimated. Grading, draining, graveling and relocating several bad turns on state trunk highways 55 and 156 will cost approximately $37,665.45, it is believed, and approximately $6,000 will be needed to build new bridges on state trunk highways 55 and 156. Relocation of the bad turns has been requested by the state highway commission.

Approximately $58,000 from the gasoline and weight tax will be spent for the maintenance of the state trunk highway system in the county. The same tax also will furnish approximately $22,000 for the improvement of the county trunk system, and approximately $88,000 for the improvement work on highway 26.

The pavement on highway 18 will be paid with a portion of the funds which were to be spent for the proposed project on highway 54 between Black Creek and Shiocton. O. C. Rollman, Green Bay, division engineer of the Wisconsin Highway commission, has indicated.

The only improvement that might be carried out on highway 54, is laying crushed stone or gravel on a few short stretches. About a quarter-mile of pavement also might be laid just west of Black Creek village near the 800 line bridge.

BUILD NEW BRIDGES

The $6,000 designated out of the 2-mill tax for bridges is believed to be sufficient to finance building three structures. The Nichols bridge No. 2 on highway 156 in the town of Cicero, the Leeman bridge on highway 156 in the town of Maine, and the Marks bridge on highway 55 in the town of Cicero, are the structures which will be torn down and built over.

The rest of the highway improvement work proposed last fall will have to be dropped this year, A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, believes. There is no other alternative, as the county simply hasn't the money, he pointed out.

Included in the appropriations thus eliminated is the $20,000 aid for paving Wisconsin-ave in Appleton, and $10,000 for improving and completing a relocation now under construction on highway 15, west of Little Chute.

The following projects, with the estimated cost of each, also will have to be laid over, it is believed:

Improvement of County trunk "E" in the town of Grand Chute, $10,000.

Paving highway in Combined Locks on county trunk "Z" $16,000.

Improvement of county trunk "X" in town of Osborn, $3,000.

Improvement of Rose Hill road in town of Vandenberg, $5,000.

Paving three streets in the city of Kaukauna, county trunk "Q," Black-st, and county trunk "J," $19,000. The improvements in county trunk "J," and on Black-st was to be concrete pavement, and Amiesite pavement was to be laid on county trunk "Q."

Improvement of county trunk "M" in town of Maine, $10,000.

Improvement of county trunk "E" in Little Chute, $5,000.

Improvement of county trunk "E," known as the Big Hill road, in town of Oneida, $6,000.

Improvement of county trunk "T" in town of Deer Creek, $5,000.

SLOW THINKING DOES NOT INDICATE DEFECTIVE MIND

Unusually slow thinkers sometimes have as good minds as the average or rapid thinker, according to the results of Terman intelligence tests repeated to 16 pupils at Wilson Junior high school who had low averages when they took it with the rest of the ninth grade students in the time limit set in the tests. Dr. M. H. Small, principal, knowing that the pace in the test was swift, gave these pupils a chance to write the test later, taking their own time, with the result that all made a good gain, and only three were left with scores under 81, the principal said.

The time required was three to six times that of the regular timing test. "The result shows the fallacy of sizing up a class on the basis of any single test. It also shows that school sections should be made up of pupils who work at about the same rate," Dr. Small stated. "Finally it shows the need of adapting courses of study to all types."

Improvement of county trunk "E" in town of Freedom, $8,000.

Improvement of county trunk "Y" in town of Seymour, $10,000.

Improvement of county trunk "Z" in town of Dale, $10,000.

Improvement of county trunk "E" in town of Novina, $5,000.

Improvement of highway commencing at east end of macadam in town of Kaukauna, $2,500.

Improvement of highway on the county line between Waupaca and Outagamie-co, $5,000.

Improvement of county trunk "M" in town of Liberty, $3,000.

Improvement of county "E" in town of Osborn, $3,000.

Caring for deficit caused by construction of two bridges on state trunk highways 55 and 156, known as the Fisher and Carpenter bridges, $1,482.70.

The $3,000 appropriation made at the 1925 November session of the county board was insufficient.

Caring for deficit met in construction of pavement on Taylor-st in city of Kaukauna, $1,013.06.

TAXPAYERS SHOULD SELECT PAVEMENT, SAYS MAYOR RULE

Property Owners Pay Most of Cost and Should Have Voice in Selection

Because property owners must pay the major cost of pavements, they should be allowed to select them for their respective streets, Mayor A. C. Rule believes. It has been suggested that a more scientific method of selecting types of pavements would be to engage experts to investigate traffic and other conditions. They would work with the city engineer and the common council, thus giving the city the proper type of pavement for each street.

In many cases, it was pointed out by advocates of the plan, the property owners only have the glib statements of enthusiastic salesmen who are attempting to put across their product. In any case, the property owners will almost always choose the least expensive pavement, regardless of conditions which might call for an entirely different type, they say.

"In most cases the tax payer is being forced to help pay for this pavement and I certainly believe he should have the privilege of selecting the type of pavement to be placed in front of his home," the mayor said. "If there was a possibility that poor or inferior type of pavement might be secured because the property owners favored that product on account of its low cost, the council could take steps to inform the tax payers of the inadvisability of this policy."

In the end the mayor pointed, the common council has the right to select pavements, and this law would therefore act as a safety valve.

"The average tax payer is intelligent enough to make a study of his own problem and is wise enough to choose the proper type of pavement, even if it does cost a little more than some other type which would not fill

U. W. COMMENCEMENT TO BE FORMAL AFFAIR

Madison—The next graduation exercises of the University of Wisconsin probably will be more formal than several of the previous ones. The faculty of the university at its March meeting approved the custom of wearing cap and gown at the commencement exercises and resolved that "in accordance with the suggestion of the committee on public functions all members of the faculty who take part in the commencement exercises be requested to wear full academic regalia."

This year's faculty action reverses stands taken previously. During the last two years, however, most of the members of the faculty participating in the commencement exercises have appeared in the academic robes of their several ranks, complying with a request of the faculty's committee on public functions.

CITY NURSE VISITS 15 HOMES DURING FEBRUARY

Fifteen homes were visited by Miss Florence Whipple, city nurse, in February, according to her monthly report. One case was investigated and 60 patients were visited. One of the patients treated was a baby, six weeks of pre-school age, one was a tubercular patient, and 10 were general patients. Miss Whipple also assisted at a baby clinic at which 45 babies were examined.

The needs of his street," Mayor Rule said.

The mayor indicated that there was no possibility that vibroplastic concrete need be laid on local streets this year.

Rheumatism Recipe

Ex-Sergeant Paul Case, Room 113 Grace Building, Brockton, Mass., states that while serving with the American Army in France he was given a prescription for Rheumatism and Neuritis that has produced most gratifying results in thousands of cases. He says the prescription cost him nothing, so he asks nothing for it, but will send it free to any one who writes him.

APPLY EARLY FOR WATER EXTENSIONS

Delay Now May Mean Wait of Year, Water Commission Secretary Warns

Unless property owners on streets where water main extensions are being planned, make application for extensions within the next two weeks, they may have to wait another year before the improvements will be made, according to Fred R. Morris, secretary of the water commission.

"There is so much legal red tape to be overcome before extension of mains can be started that it is usually two months after the application is made before actual work is underway," said Mr. Morris. "If a property owner waits an month or six weeks before making his application, he may not get the extension until late in fall or perhaps next year."

Application blanks may be secured

WRIGHTMAN IN CHARGE OF RIVER IMPROVEMENT

Nelson Wrightman, United States government engineer appointed to the Appleton office to succeed Howard Palmer of Appleton, resigned, will have charge of repairing and raising the dam between the Fox river and the government canal at Kaukauna, according to E. F. Everett, United States engineer in charge of the local office.

Work at Kaukauna will not be started until after the spring floods, probably early in June. The project at the Electric City will cost approximately $50,000.

CITY SET ASIDE $600 FOR HEALTH WORK HERE

The city appropriated $5,600 for health work in 1926, according to Dr. W. C. Felton, health officer, who answered a questionnaire, recently received at the water department office in the city hall.

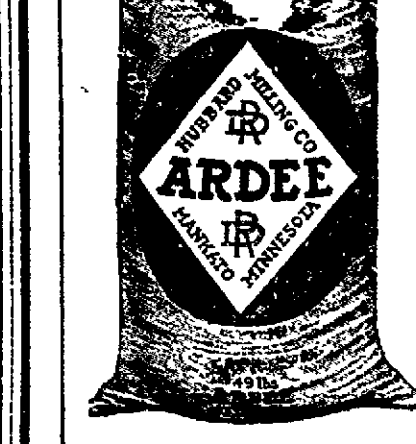

ed from W. W. Bauer, Racine health officer. There is no full time health officer here. Mr. Bauer is making a survey of the principal cities in Wisconsin to determine how many have full time health officers, what the annual appropriation for health work is, and what the estimated population and assessed valuation of the cities is. Appleton has an estimated population of 25,000 and an assessed valuation of more than $31,000,000.

LARGE CROWD HEARS APPLETON MAN TALK

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE Death strikes GARRETT FOLSON while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J. After being perfunctorily examined by a doctor, the body is brought to the Hotel Majusca, where an inquiry is started.

Folson's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, MRS. HELEN BARNABY, and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folson, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the copper king.

Then the startling announcement is made that Folson had been stabbed to death in the water. Ross, his valet, is questioned, as are Barron and his wife, but no light is shed on the mystery.

ANASTASIA FOLSON, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is established that the death weapon was a pichao, an Oriental knife, and that it and its scabbard had been purchased on the boardwalk.

It is also brought out in the inquest that Folson's fortune is to be divided between his sister, Roger Neville and a nephew, DANIEL PELTON. Anastasia announces she will engage a private detective.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII The corner stared at her, but as she, of course, had a right to engage a private detective if she chose, he made no response to her irritating speech.

"I would like to hear from those who were in conversation with Mr. Folson just before he went into the ocean," said Hubbard. "Mr. Neville, you were in his party?"

"Yes," Neville said, stepping forward. "We went in the water together."

"There were others with you?"

"Two ladies, Mrs. Barnaby and Mrs. Valdon."

"Yes. And tell me now, did you notice anything unusual about Mr. Folson's manner? Anything apprehensive?"

"Absolutely nothing of the sort. Mr. Folson was in the best of spirits and ready to enjoy his ocean dip with the rest of us."

"You and he were business partners, I am told."

"Not partners; we were in the same company."

"What company was that, Mr. Neville?"

"The Royal Realty Company. But Mr. Folson was president, I am merely vice president."

"Ah, yes. Real estate?"

"Yes, a Chicago concern. Now that Mr. Folson is dead, much of the business will devolve on me."

"Naturally. And you are one of Mr. Folson's heirs?"

"Yes, as Miss Folson stated."

"Now, Mr. Neville, will you recount as exactly as you can the circumstances of Mr. Folson's death? Tell the minute details as you saw them."

"As a matter of fact, I saw, very little. I was at some distance from our party, and whenever I endeavored to speak to them, a wave came and either boomed me over or swept away all sound of my voice, so I gave up the attempts and merely swam around in the surf by myself."

"Then what was the first intimation you had of anything having happened to Mr. Folson?"

"Naturally I glanced toward our own crowd now and then, and as I looked I failed to see Folson. I thought nothing of that at the moment, as he now and then left the rope, but I next saw one or two life guards come to the rope and then people got between us and I couldn't see what was going on. But then I saw the two guards carrying someone ashore and I recognized at once that it was Garrett Folson."

"You were near enough to see him then?"

"I didn't see his face, but I recognized his bathing suit, gray with black stripes, and I felt sure it was he. I went immediately to where the ladies of our party stood, holding the rope, and they were almost overcome with fear that Mr. Folson had suffered a stroke or an attack of some sort. I advised them to go ashore at once, and suggested that we all go to our bathhouse and dress in order to be of any possible assistance to our friend."

"And that is what you did?"

"Yes. They agreed that was the best thing to do, and we were soon dressed and back to the hotel, where like himself, or betrayed fear or nervousness of any sort."

"No, I did not," the Duchess replied, relieved at the easy question. "But I knew Mr. Folson only slightly, not so well as the other members of our little party. You see, he was a friend of the others. I only met him the night before—before last."

"You stood next him in the ocean?"

"Not at the time he went under. I was next him but one, then."

"Who was next him?"

"Mrs. Valdon."

"And on the other side?"

"I am told a Mr. Barron was. But I do not know Mr. Barron."

"That will do, Mrs. Barnaby. Mrs. Valdon next."

Carmelita came forward, looking so beautiful that many present gave an involuntary gasp of admiration. Though in no way over-dressed her bright-colored beach cape, falling from her graceful shoulders, gave her the look of a Spanish princess. Indeed, the beach cape was made from a Spanish shawl, whose gorgeous embroidered flowers shone out lustreously from a black background.

"Mrs. Valdon, will you add anything you can to the story of Mr. Folson's death in the ocean yesterday?"

"How can I add anything? I do not even know that he died in the ocean, except by hearsay."

While not exactly flippant, Carmelita's manner was distinctly disinterested, and the corner was a little at a loss how to treat her.

But he felt it was best to "give it to her straight," as he expressed it to himself, and he said, sternly, "Do not attempt to quibble. You know how and when Mr. Folson met his death. Can you tell me anything in the way of detailed description of what you saw during his last moments?"

"No, I can't," said Carmelita, modestly, but with a look of sadness, as if one thinking back over a harrowing scene.

"Yet you stood next him?"

WEIGH CHEESE BEFORE IS SOLD, SEALER WARNS

Brick and limberger cheese must be sold by net weight, according to Wisconsin laws, Joseph A. Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures, warned Appleton dealers Thursday. Several dealers had inquired of Mr. Hodgins whether it was permissible to accept the figure stamped on the outside of cheese wrappers, without weighing the product before it was sold.

"The state law provides," said Mr. Hodgins, "that cheese must be sold by net weight. Brick and limberger cheese is made in molds which are designed to make 1-pound bricks. These bricks vary in weight, however, and while a few are exact, most of the bricks are several ounces over or underweight. It is necessary for the dealer to weigh the brick and charge only for the amount which it contains."

CADILLAC performance reflects a great engineering principle

Its 90-degree, V-type design is the basic reason for that complete excellence which distinguishes Cadillac from all other cars—for its surpassing smoothness and silence; for its powerful, flashing performance; for its unequalled dependability. It is this principle which has made the Cadillac the one name in all the world which springs first to mind when motor car performance, or long life, or low cost of maintenance, is mentioned. And finally, it is this principle which, in the Cadillac of today, is responsible for the fact that America demands more Cadillacs than all the other really fine cars combined.

THE PRESIDENT'S VACATION

Mr. Coolidge's decision to take his summer vacation in the west is a tactful and judicious move. We have no doubt the president made up his mind to the trip out of a sincere desire to taste the mid-West's recreational and climatic offerings, but at the same time it is not without political significance. Following so quickly upon the enactment by congress of the McNary-Haugen bill, its veto and the alleged agricultural revolt, the president must at least look upon his choice with satisfaction. It is generally conceded that the most important single factor in the next presidential campaign will be the farmer vote, and particularly the vote of the mid-West. Whether it will control the nomination and election of a president is uncertain, but it is not improbable. Mr. Coolidge realizes this, no matter what his tariff friends and the Eastern reactionaries may say to the contrary. If he is going to be a candidate, he will need support from this portion of the country.

Residence for a few months in the central West will give him an opportunity to know it and study it, and if possible adjust himself more to its point of view. It will also give the people a chance to study the president and more directly and personally to weigh his point of view. Of course, he will be asked to make a few speeches and he may respond. He may even be induced to make a few special visits to important centers. Because of traits of character shaped to a large extent by an environment and background with which the agricultural West is unfamiliar, it does not know Mr. Coolidge. Considering the fact that even the East feels its contact with the White house is somewhat remote and indefinite, the West feels that it is almost entirely out of touch with the administration. This has been accentuated by the failure to enact farm relief legislation.

Mr. Coolidge's presence in this section may bring about a reappraisal of his personality and his policies. He may be made to appear to it a little more human, sympathetic and competent. Neither the president nor his advisors will overlook these possibilities, and it is to be hoped for the good of the administration and the good of the country, they will be realized in a substantial measure.

CRIME

Crime is primarily a problem of youth, of neglected and untrained youth. Crime rarely exists of itself. It is a result of cumulative causes, of many small things piled one on top of the other until the structure is topheavy. Then comes crime. Few persons start out with the deliberate intention of becoming criminals.

If this hypothesis is true, and many investigators subscribe to it, then what we need is a new point of view in our war against crime. We must make provision to arrest, convict and punish criminals. That much is conceded. But we must go beyond that punitive stage and begin the really constructive work where it will count best, with the new generation.

There is not much economic value in reforming a man 45 years old. True, the angels in Heaven may rejoice at his redemption and all that sort of thing, but the best years of his life have been wasted and the remaining years are not worth much to society. Therefore we say, spend less time in trying to reform middle aged criminals and making their period of incarceration easy, and spend more time and effort on properly educating the younger generation so that they will not grow up to be criminals.

It is merely a question of relative values, this fighting of the disease we call crime. A scientist, when he wages a campaign against an epidemic, does a certain amount to relieve the suffering of those who have contracted the illness but his main concern, his proper concern, is the development of means to immunize the thousands who have not yet contracted it, who may thus be spared its tortures and the extent of the disease drastically restricted. We need to vaccinate youth against crime with the right sort of education. Let us spend much time in this work and much energy, for the result will be well worth it.

MOBILIZING INDUSTRY

France has just taken a rather interesting step with the passage of an act for the nationalization of all useful industry in time of war. Power is conferred on the government to requisition according to needs. Compensation is fixed in the bill for the services of all French citizens, collectively and individually, all live stock, raw and manufactured materials, buildings, furniture, factories and inventions.

The right of requisition, however, can only be exercised in the event of mobilization. When labor is requisitioned the same wages will be paid as in civil employment. In the use of live stock, raw and manufactured materials, the price paid will be the current price. The use of buildings is also adequately covered.

In principle such a law is right and just. Too often the brunt of hostilities is borne almost entirely by the men on the firing line. Those left behind are only dimly aware that a war is going on. When a nation goes to war things should be so adjusted that all share equally the burden and contribute their portion toward the successful prosecution of the conflict.

America needs such a law and the more stringent it can be made the better. We have been through one such experience where our men died in the trenches while thousands became wealthy, safe at home. If there is ever another war let our soldiers go to fight, but let industry fight too. Let every man and woman bear his or her share. Let there be no opportunity for profiteering, for unusual profits, for exploitation. Let us see that every able bodied man goes to fight for his country, but let us see also that they are not betrayed by slackers at home. There'll be less enthusiasm for war if some means of conscripting capital and labor is provided.

INCREASING HEART TROUBLE

The rate at which life moves these days, particularly in the cities, is proving a serious menace to health as it effects the heart. Heart disease has become the first menace to life in New York city, leading all other causes of mortality with a total of 15,651 deaths in 1925.

In New York city fifteen years ago heart disease ranked third in the causes of death and the rate of mortality for that condition was 175 per 100,000 of population. In 1925 the rate was 266 per 100,000 of population. This alarming increase has attracted renewed attention from physicians and has led the Medical society of the state of New York to appoint a committee to make a detailed investigation of the whole field and wage a state-wide war on the disease.

Why not make it country-wide? And why wait for a survey? Every sensible person knows what is wrong. We are living too fast for our bodies. The strain of even everyday life today is terrific. It tells on the body and therefore on the most vulnerable portion of the body, the heart, first. That organ is working at high pressure many hours a day. With increased activities on the part of everyone, later hours and other conditions to destroy repose, the heart does not get the rest it should.

Also the excitement of the age leaves its mark on the heart. People are seeking, and finding, a new thrill a minute. Every thrill takes its toll in the form of increased work on the heart. Finally we get to the point where the poor, overworked organ gives up its labors and we die. Why not "step on the brake" a bit instead of "stepping on the gas" so consistently?

OLD MASTERS

I loaf and invite my soul;
I lean and loaf at my ease, observing a spear of summer grass.

A child said, "What is the grass?" fetching it to me
With full hands;
How could I answer the child? I do not know what it is, any more than he.

I guess it must be the flag of my disposition, out of hopeful green stuff woven.

Or I guess it is the handkerchief of the Lord,
A scented gift and remembrance, designedly dropped,
Bearing the owner's name somewhere in the corners,
That we may see and remark, and say:
"Whence?"

INFECTION IS NOT DISEASE

Physicians and others who still cherish the theory that exposure to cold and wet has something to do with some unidentified respiratory disease often attempt to cast doubt on the infectious character of such disease by citing a curious fallacy. They point out that certain bacteria, such as pneumococci, are generally found in the mouth, nose or throat of even well people. The trick is to make the audience assume that if this is true, and nobody can say it isn't true, then the germs must be of trivial importance, or only a minor factor, or as some alleged health experts maintain, mere parasites attracted by the disease condition and of no particular significance.

Now this is all idle, fatuous argument, though some physicians and health authorities who should know better do not hesitate to indulge in it. The fallacy is this: The fact that germs are found in the mouth or nose or throat of persons of any kind is no sign that anything is the matter with them. Pneumonia germs, diptheria germs, tubercle bacilli, none of them do a bit of harm until they have invaded the tissues of the host. That is what infection means—the germs invade the tissues, and not that germs have been swallowed or have gotten into the saliva or into the nose or throat.

Infection, invasion of the tissues of the body by disease germs, does not necessarily signify sickness or disease. If any large group of us were given the tuberculin test today a considerable proportion of us, though perfectly well, would react positively. This proves, absolutely and beyond any reasonable question, that the reactor has tuberculosis somewhere in his body. That is, he is infected with tuberculosis, has some focus of tuberculosis infection, a colony of tubercle bacilli, somewhere in his system, though we know he is perfectly well and we expect he will remain well and live long and prosper. His infection is latent. Possibly some day, if the condition happens to be just right, the latent tuberculosis may become active and the host will then become sick. But most of us go through life with just such a local latent tuberculosis infection—about 60 per cent of all necropsy records show this latent tuberculosis irrespective of the cause of death.

Of course, it is not accurate to say that a person who has latent tuberculosis is perfectly sound and well. Certainly the lymph nodes or "glands" which harbor the tuberculosis focus are not normal. But so far as any tests we have for health or for health impairment show, the individual may be perfectly well.

Sheep or rabbits infected with anthrax will go on quietly feeding and apparently normal until they die suddenly without previous manifestation of disease, although their blood swarms with the germs. Here is an instance of a general infection without any indication of sickness or disease.

The mere presence of germs doesn't necessarily mean infection or disease. Nor does the killing of germs in the mouth, nose or throat signify that you are bettering any of the germs which may have invaded adjacent tissues.

All right, fire away, only please make your question clear and specific.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Headache and Meat

Is there such a thing as a "headache" meaning a pain somewhere in the head? Is it proper to refer to the flesh of animals, such as beef, pork, mutton or chicken, as "meat"? (O. J. W.)

Answer—Yes, pain felt in the head is headache. The edible flesh of any animal is called meat.

Medical Humor

Kindly explain what is meant by a "Cardiac Heart"? How could a mother tell if her daughter had such? (Mrs. T. D.)

Answer—Cardiac is a medical term which means of or pertaining to the heart. Some times doctors say "cardiac" when they wish to refer to the heart. A mother can't tell if her daughter has heart disease. A physician can tell by examining the daughter's heart.

Mineral Matter

Please advise what foodstuffs contain considerable amounts of sodium, potassium and magnesium. (L. S. W.)

Answer—Nuts, beans, peas, beef, wheat, flax seed, bran, cabbage, carrots, milk, chocolate, cocoa, corn, pork, potatoes, pineapple, bananas, cheese, celery, tomatoes and eggs all contain considerable sodium, potassium and magnesium.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

An effort was being made to organize another council of the Catholic Relief and Beneficiary association in Appleton. Thomas O'Neil, supreme president, delivered a lecture at St. Joseph hall the previous evening in the interest of the organization.

T. F. Crocker and J. F. McDonald, superintendent and cable man of the New Fox River Valley Telephone Co. had tendered their resignations. It had been announced.

The last of the series of dancing parties to be given by the Married People's club was to take place the following Wednesday at Douglas hall.

Forty-seven women employed in the paper mills of the city were initiated into Appleton lodge No. 24 of the United Brotherhood of Paper Makers at a special meeting held the previous Saturday night.

The permanent reorganization for the ensuing year of the Wisconsin State Baseball league was effected the previous afternoon at a meeting at the Sherman house. The circuit was to include teams from Green Bay, Kaukauna, Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Waupun, Manitowish and Sheboygan.

A daughter was born the previous Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Otto Buchmann.

TEN YEARS AGO

Monday, March 12, 1917

An "armed guard" for the protection of vessels and lives of persons aboard was to be placed on all American merchant ships sailing through German's latest zone area, the state department that day notified all foreign diplomats. The armed guard was to be American navy gunners. The statement also showed that it was the intention of the government to arm not only passenger ships but provide guns and navy gunners for munition ships.

Norman Schwertke, 606 Second-ave., was elected secretary of the Appleton branch of the musician's union at a meeting the previous day. Mr. Schwertke was to succeed J. W. Doyle who resigned after three years of service.

The committee for invitations and pictures for the senior class commencement at the high school had been selected. The committee on invitations was composed of Norman Schomisch, Ethel Durick and Virginia McNaughton; committee on pictures, Herbert Schmiede, Leo Merkel, Eleanor Hals, Ina Kronke, Stella Strassburger. John Vincent was president of the class.

The Appleton Motor Boat club was making plans for the annual dancing party of the club to be given on April 17 at Eagle hall. Commodore Manville had been appointed general chairman of committees in charge of arrangements for the party.

C. B. Ballard left that afternoon for Madison where he was to attend several committee hearings that week.

Carl R. Reidel and Lawrence Koss returned the previous day from Clintonville where they spent several days visiting friends and relatives.

REPEAL PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX

Editor Post-Crescent—In justification of exempting personal property taxation I beg to call your attention to what the Supreme Court of the State of Wisconsin by Chief Justice Winslow had to say on this subject:

"By the present law it is quite clear that personal property taxation for all practical purposes becomes a thing of the past. That the taxation of such property has proven a practical failure will be admitted by all who have given any attention to the subject. Doubtless this was one of the main arguments in the Legislative mind for the passage of the present act (That is the Income Law). By this Act, the Legislature has, in substance, declared that the State's system of taxation shall be changed from a system of uniform taxation of property to a system which shall be a combination of two items, namely, taxation of the persons progressively, according to ability to pay, and taxation of real property uniformly, according to value."

Also note what the Tax Commission of Wisconsin has had to say on different occasions about it:

"The Commission believes that far greater simplicity in administration and reduction of public expense, as well as a more equitable distribution of the tax burdens, will result, if all personal property be exempted from the general tax roll."

"Under these conditions why should the Legislature hesitate to take the final step and remove the discarded personal property tax from our system making the necessary changes in the income tax to secure an equivalent yield."

Also, in support of this proposal, attention is called to the overwhelming vote of the people of the State at the last election in approval of it. They knew, and know now, that the only way to reduce taxes is to reduce them. They knew, and they know now that the tax burden from all sources in Wisconsin in 1918 was approximately sixty million dollars, and that last year this burden from all sources was approximately one hundred forty-two millions.

The people also knew that in 1916 the expense of the Secretary of State's office was approximately sixty-seven thousand dollars, and in 1926 that it was six hundred twenty-four thousand dollars. They knew that the expense of the Attorney General's office in 1916 was thirty-seven thousand dollars, and in 1926 was one hundred twenty-two thousand dollars.

They knew that the expense of the Tax Commission's office in 1916 was one hundred eighty-two thousand dollars, and in 1926 was three hundred eighty-eight thousand dollars.

They knew that the expense of the Industrial Commission in 1916 was one hundred thirty-four thousand dollars, and in 1926 was three hundred twenty-one thousand dollars.

They knew that the expense of the Dairy & Food Commission in 1916 was sixty-seven thousand dollars, and in 1926 was one hundred twenty-one thousand dollars.

They knew that the expense of the Supreme Court in 1916 was seventy-four thousand dollars, while in 1926 it was only eighty-six thousand dollars.

It will be noted that the most important department of government, namely, the Supreme Court has functioned with practically no increase of expenditure.

The people also know that the expense of all other State Departments have enormously and unnecessarily increased as a result of a policy of unrestrained bureaucracy.

Retrenchment in this orgy of public expenditures has been promised so long with no results, that there is determination now to actually reduce taxes.

There are two good reasons for a reduction in this way. One is that the personal property tax system is already disfigured beyond recognition by all sorts of exemptions, and another is that it will actually reduce taxes about equally in country and city and compel us to get along some way with one hundred forty-two millions of tax burdens this year instead of one hundred sixty-two millions which the people paid last year.

It is certain that the people are not satisfied with the present tax burdens. It is also certain that an attempt to shift these burdens will not be satisfactory.

By slowing up the proposed wide-open policy of highway building, which totalled last year, including everything, nearly fifty millions, there would be many millions in the Treasury of the State available for any emergencies which may arise by the discontinuance of personal property taxes.

Wallace Ingalls,
Madison, Wis., March 9, 1927.

ONE MORE QUESTION

Editor, Post-Crescent: To the Honorable Mayor of Appleton: In the auditors report as published Feb. 11 I find an item of $713.95 plans for new buildings. Where are they. I am unable to find them.

In the mayor's and aldermen's budget estimated as follows: Salaries of the Aldermen $6,055.83; salary of Mayor $1,616.83; office help salary $1,080; traveling expense $679.70; other expense $661.52; total $9,093.88. There is $10,856.49 spent not accounted for as published. I believe the taxpayers should have, and are entitled to have a itemized annual account of all money spent and to whom paid. Years back we had such a monthly statement.

I think the expense of publishing the same could be more than made up in other ways. For instance traveling expense.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

TUMBLE-BUGS AND THEIR KINFOLK

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n
A little while ago we were all listening to the marvelous things that were happening over in Luxor at the opening of the several caskets of King "Tut." Possibly you remember that among the depictions of the dazzling decorations and ornamental jewelry, frequently mentioned was a beetle of the scarab, idealized representations of the sacred beetle of the Egyptians.

Will you be surprised when I tell you that these beetles belong to the same family as our humble, well-known tumble-bug, which in some ways is about the most unattractive of all insects?

There are a good many varieties of this tumble-bug which are all alike in their method of depositing their eggs in balls of cow manure, the outside covered with earth, sand, or dust. This ball is then rolled along until a suitable place is found, where it is buried, sometimes several inches beneath the surface of the ground.

In these very unpleasant surroundings the egg hatches and the grub develops into the tumble-bug.

The Question Box

Q. When a speech is being broadcast, do the listeners hear the voice sooner than people in the audience at a distance of 150 feet? E. G. U.

A. The Radio Division of the Department of Commerce says that the radio listeners of a message being broadcast really get the message a fraction of a second sooner than the speaker can be heard by an audience because electric waves travel faster than sound. The difference is very slight, and sometimes atmospheric conditions may interfere.

Q. If Benny Leonard was undefeated, why did he retire? G. A. Y.

A. Benny Leonard retired an undefeated champion. His official excuse for his retirement was that his mother requested him to withdraw from boxing.

Q. I have a boy that was born at 12:30 A. M. while we were using daylight saving time. Should his birthday be considered June 2 or June 3? H.

A. In reckoning a birthday standard time is employed. His birthday would be June 2.

Q. What relation to Napoleon Bonaparte the Second and Napoleon the Third? E. H.

A. Napoleon Bonaparte was Napoleon the First. He was the father of Napoleon the Second, and the uncle of Napoleon the Third.

Q. What is the meaning of all the tiny flags that may be seen fluttering in the gardens in Japan? M. P.

A. These pennants are used to frighten birds away, thus protecting the garden. A lath upright is placed about every twenty feet, and a cord carried from post to post. On the cord strips of paper and cloth are tied. The fluttering pennants are, therefore, a graceful adaptation of the scarecrow idea.

Q. What is meant by a source book? F. W.

A. As its name indicates, it is a book containing sources of information on any given subject, including a list of reference books, annotations, and similar data by means of which an exhaustive study of the subject may be made.

Q. If the Star of Bethlehem was not of supernatural origin, what star could it have been? M. G.

A. According to Kepler the "star" in question was probably a conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn in the constellation Pisces, the two planets being so close as to seem like a single star. This conjunction is recorded as having occurred about 7 B. C. and might possibly coincide with the birth of Christ. Another theory is that the star of Bethlehem was a recurrent star the last appearance of which was in 1572 when it appeared in Cassiopeia. This star is reported to appear about every 300 years. A third theory is that the star was Venus which varies in brightness but is the brightest of all known stars.

Q. How many rings did the mummy of Tutankhi-amen wear? E. W. K.

A. Thirteen rings were found on his hands. There were eleven bracelets on his arms.

Q. How did Lexington, Virginia, get its name? M. P. W.

A. It was named after Lexington, Massachusetts.

Q. Has Germany any large passenger ships in service now—that is any that compare with the Leviathan and the "Quest"? F. L.

A. Germany has none at the present time but it is said that the North German Lloyd has recently begun the construction of two 46,000-ton liners. These are to be known as the Bremen and the Europa but will probably not be completed for two years.

ASSEMBLY MEETS TONIGHT TO CATCH UP WITH ITS WORK

Horde of Bills Waiting for Action by Lower House of Legislature

Madison—(AP)—In its first night meeting of the 1927 legislative session, the assembly Monday night faces a heavy calendar. Two minor bills are scheduled for final passage, but there are eleven ready for engrossment and almost an equal number upon which the question is "Shall the bill be ordered to a third reading?"

The joint resolution by Assemblyman Lewis calling upon congress to effect government ownership of railroads is slated for indefinite postponement if the house goes by the labor committee's recommendation.

Among the bills upon which there may be debate before they are engrossed are:

The bill preventing payment to clerks of school districts of more salary than drawn by the director or secretary of the board, but allowing additional compensation to that provided under other sections of the law. This bill is by Assemblyman Rheingans.

Providing for payment of 20 per cent of the stock subscriptions before a state bank is incorporated, a bill by Assemblyman Wood.

Making inspection of national bank trust departments annual instead of twice yearly, with provisions for occasional inspections at the order of the banking commissioner, and setting the amount of fees to be charged for these examinations and for liquidation of closed banks of this type. This bill is by Assemblyman Rowlands.

Each of the three bills have the approval of the committees in which they had public hearing.

That of Assemblyman Nelson, however, is recommended for indefinite postponement. It would remove the tax on farm horses and mules.

Indefinite postponement is also suggested by the committee on agriculture, for the bill providing for county referendum elections on the employment or retention of county agricultural agents.

The bill calling for a state compensation fund to pay liability of the state, counties, villages, cities and towns and school districts, under the workmen's compensation act is also recommended for indefinite postponement.

Six senate bills are proposed for third reading. They include one by Senator Sackhoff appropriating about $2,750 to the board of control as an emergency amount for the school for the deaf and industrial home for women; one by Senator Casperson changing the period in which county depository banks must show their ability to handle funds and several other bills of local or minor importance.

Presses clicking. Here come the papers. Watch the boys grab 'em. There they go. More "extras." More screaming. Answer that wire. "What's that—her father's disinherited them?" "What a story y'is! You see, he was just an East Side boy and this debutante fell for him. When a murdered woman was found in his apartment, she pledged all her wealth to fight the courts. Then, she—Get that phone!"

An unusual array of film stars in a fast moving dramatic comedy, is offered at the New Bijou Theatre where "The Thrill Hunter" is holding the screen today and Tuesday.

Featuring a cast that includes at least three authentic stars and a host of lesser lights, is William Haines. This popular actor is a dramatic star of the first water. In "The Thrill Hunter" he proves himself a comedy star of far more than average accomplishments.

Playing opposite Mr. Haines is Kathryn McGuire, the beautiful young favorite, whose rise on the screen has been nothing short of amazing. Miss McGuire, long noted as a dancer of exquisite grace, now fulfills the promise she made silently to film fans some time ago when she gave every indication of a phenomenal popularity in the near future.

Also in the cast is Alma Bennett, the lovely and well-known cinema artist. Miss Bennett plays a vamp. One wonders where the hero gets the cruelty or courage to resist her!

Natural steam arising from geysers has been employed in Japan to turn wheels which generate electricity.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

(Readers of The Post-Crescent are invited to send their bridge problems to the Bridge Editor of The Post-Crescent and they will be forwarded to Mr. Work, author of these bridge articles. Mr. Work will answer every letter.)

The pointer for today is: The informative double, soundly used, is a most effective weapon; imprudently used it is a devastating blunder.

At the risk of repetition, I again strongly emphasize the importance of using the informative double conservatively. With a dependable partner—one who can be relied upon to have at least five high cards of such strength and with such guards that they will probably take tricks—the informative double usually is effective and rarely produces a loss of any consequence; but the improvement, double, without the requisite strength, may be forcing his partner to assume a contract to take eight tricks with a hand not good for even one, is a very dangerous vis-avis. When a player announces that he will not double unless he has the five high-card strength, requirement about satisfied, and lives up to his announcement, he avoids serious losses and maintains the confidence of the partner.

One other essential point to be remembered in connection with the use of the informative double, is that the partner (in the absence of an intervening adverse bid) is forced to bid.

consequently his bid (unless he rebid) cannot be depended upon as anything more than four cards of the suit he names. It is a common and serious error for a doubler who has doubled soundly with a holding just sufficient to justify the double, to feel that when the answer of the partner happens to be in a suit in which the doubler is strong, it is the duty of the doubler to raise the partner's bid. This is an unsound practice which produces innumerable and serious losses. When the doubler's strength no more than justifies his double, the partner of the doubler should thereafter do all the talking. If south (Dealer) bid one No Trump, West holding:

Sp: A-10-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1
Cl: Q-J-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1
H: North pass, East bid two Hearts, and South two No Trumps. West should not bid three Hearts; East's forced bid may have been made with four worthless Hearts and a trickless hand.

18 BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED IN FEBRUARY

Eighteen building permits authorizing improvements estimated at $60,250 were issued in February by Walter Zschneehner, building inspector, as compared with 21 permits estimated at $75,968 in the same month in 1926. Seven were for additions or improvements to homes or store buildings, six were for new garages and five were for new residences. The largest permit, $25,000, was issued to Geenen's Dry Goods company for an addition to the store. The second largest was issued to Lawrence Lutz for a residence estimated to cost $12,000.

Well-known local builder suffered so he used to have to get up in the middle of the night to walk the floor.

We don't say that Dreco will snatch you from the grave, that chronic, incurable diseases are wiped out by Dreco but we do say that if the vital organs are sluggish, slightly deranged, your system clogged with waste matter or you need a good bracing tonic, Dreco will do the work. Ask the Dreco Expert at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store about it.

"I have the highest praise for Dreco for it relieved me of suffering that was just dragging me down and down," declares Mr. August Beusch, 726 West Winnebago-St., a building contractor who is known all over Appleton. Mr. Beusch made a special trip to Schlitz Bros. Drug Store just to tell the Dreco man how much better he was feeling since taking Dreco. "I had been ailing for over a year when a friend of mine, Mr. Draz, recommended Dreco. I was losing weight fast, was nervous from loss of sleep and appetite and suffered so with my stomach I didn't know what to do. Often I'd wake up in the middle of the night with violent pains in my stomach and would have to get out of bed and walk the floor for hours. Nothing would bring me relief. Gas formed, causing my heart to flutter and making me so short of breath I was very frightened.

"I've only been taking Dreco for a week but the results have been so great I just have to tell about it. I haven't suffered with the cramps or gas once since taking Dreco and am beginning to feel more like my old self again. I'm gaining in weight, have a good appetite and sleep soundly all night long. I owe a lot to Dreco and am glad to recommend it to everyone."

"Mr. H. W. C. Marr Baker, the well-known expert on the Dreco Labratories now at Schlitz Bros. Downtown Drug Store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him.

The Post-Crescent and is being directed personally by Frank W. Griffith, who came from Racine, which he regards as his "home" because it was there that he directed his first exposition 17 years ago.

There will be entertainment during the four days of the show and it is estimated that 10,000 persons will attend during the four days.

Spaces for exhibits may be secured by calling the advertising manager of The Post-Crescent at 543. Although the space is large and will accommodate 50 exhibitors, the demand which has been created by the bare announcement indicates that all 50 spaces will be occupied. It is expected that some very artistic booths will be included in the display.

Wind Up The Old Phonograph And Try Jumping To Keep That Spring Beauty

BY NIXON

WHAT beauty and slenderness should be acquired as painlessly as possible has always been my pet theory.

That is why I have urged you to dance your way to a divine figure. Not that you really avoid any of the exercises that are necessary to reduce your bumps and humps to lovely clean-cut lines, but you don't mind the effort.

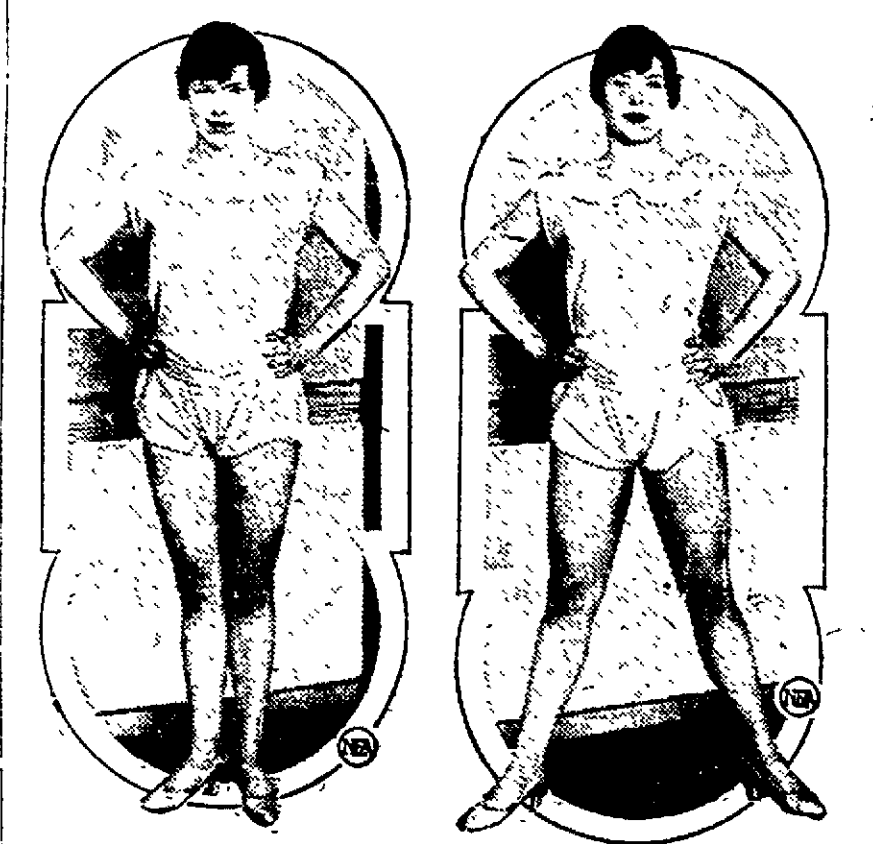

You would probably be surprised to know that your favorite stars, as well as the prominent society women who are continually being set up as fashion plates for you to follow, all belong to dancing classes, where they stretch, limber up, and "work out" for their figure's sake.

Here is an exercise that is often given as a starter in such a course: Stand upright, being careful that your shoulders and neck are not uncomfortably strained, with the feet together and your hands upon the hips that are about to pass out of your life.

Then spring upward and spread your feet as far apart as possible as in the photograph below, and then jump back to your original position. Start slowly, if you like, then work up to a good speed.

It is infinitely more pleasant if you have a nice sprightly tune on the phonograph accompanying your efforts. At first you may find yourself coming down in true jumbo fashion that threatens damage to the floor, but as you become more proficient you will achieve lightness and springiness, and if you keep it up you may be able to leap through the air as Mordred used to, and light on the mantel, or chandelier, or any desired goal.

At any rate, consistent practice in this will work wonders for your silhouette.

FUR OR FABRIC BOWS ON NEW SPRING COATS

The coat versus suit question comes up again as spring approaches. While the choice between the two is registered strongly after several years of almost complete oblivion, it cannot be said that they will in any way replace the need for long coats. As long as dresses remain in vogue the long coat will be indispensable.

Coats this year will be straight lined with emphasis placed on feminine trimming details. Even tailored models show evidence of soft trimming touches such as bandings, insets, bows, scarfs or fur. Mannish double-breasted models which were popular last year are replaced by single button wrap-around models with fur collars or graceful scarfs.

GRAY MONKEY FUR

Black crepe satin will be the most popular of the dressy fabrics and trimming is achieved by using the reversible side of the material for bandings, stripes, borders and rear V-shaped effects. Black and white effects are popular as well as all black effects. Black and white monkey fur collars trim many black silk models, the fur being used to form collars or in fringe treatment on the skirts. Gray monkey fur is used on gray kasha models and proves very effective. Black moire although not as popular as black crepe, forms several smart coats which use ombre lapin on front borders. Ombre lapin, however threatens to be one of the common furs of the season since it is used on numerous cloth and silk models. It is effective, however.

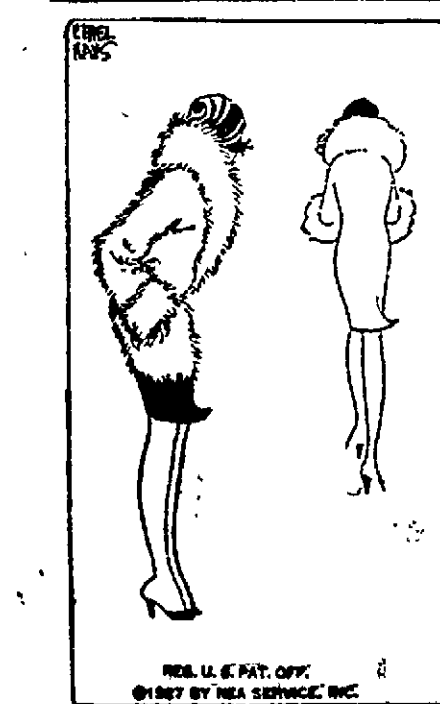

PIN TUCKINGS

Bows of fur or fabric adorn many new models, the bow being used as a left shoulder trimming or at the rear of the collar. Pin tuckings outline the yoke or low waist line of many models and is considered a smart means of effecting a feminine touch on straight lined models. Insets of contrasting fabric are likewise a trimming diversity. Jabot lapels outlined in fur are a favored neck treatment.

As has been said before, fur trims most of the new spring coats. Where cloth is the fabric, broadtail, mink sable, kolinsky squirrel and ermine are important. Sleeves are slender, skirts short and slenderness throughout is the keynote of spring coat styles.

At a dance at an English hotel twenty couples danced to music which could not be heard by spectators. The dancers carried tiny individual receiving sets.

Love Letters Of The Great

AS COMPILED BY DIANA RICE

OLIVER CROMWELL, 1603-1658

From a lovely homestead, where she daily directed her awkward maids, to the dazzling splendor of a palace at court, Elizabeth Boucher followed her lover and husband, Oliver Cromwell. For ten years after their marriage, the couple remained in happy seclusion, and Elizabeth found her young hands full, rearing a family of five sons and four daughters. Cromwell, say some historians, was always a devoted companion to his pretty wife. But there are those chroniclers of dramatic mind and flaming pen who have written down long pages on Cromwell's "wild oats." That they were sowed before his marriage, if at all, seems likely, as it was before he was 21, according to an old record, that "his mother sent him to London where he gave himself up to wine, women and play."

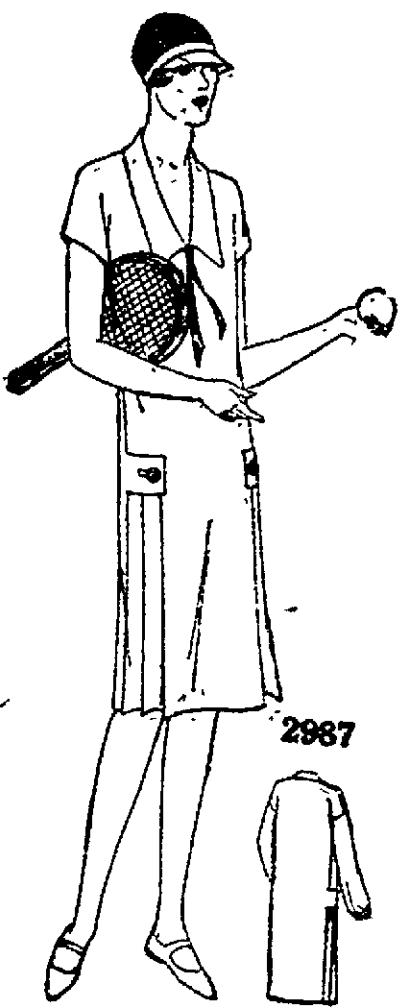

For My Beloved Wife, Elizabeth Cromwell at the Cockpit

Dunbar, Sept. 1, 1650

My Dearest—I have not leisure to write much; but I could chide thee that in many of thy letters thou writest me that I should not be unmindful of thee and thy little ones. Truly, if I love you not too well, I think I err not on the other hand; much. Thou art dearer to me than any creature; let that suffice.

The Lord hath showed us an exceeding mercy; who can tell how great it is! My weak faith hath been upheld. I have been in my inward man marvellously supported, though I assure thee I grow an old man and feel infirmities marvellously stealing upon me. Would my corruptions did as fast decrease! Pray on my behalf in the latter respect. The particulars of our late success Harry Vane or Gilbert

TRY VAMPING YOUR CHILDREN!

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

By Olive Roberts Barton

IT was about half past three in the afternoon of a dark, rainy day. I had dropped in unexpectedly to visit a friend and found her in an old dress and gingham apron, polishing furniture.

"I'm so very, very glad to see you!" she cried. "It's a wonderful day to sit by the fire and chat. Sit down, won't you, and look over a magazine while I run up and dress. I'll only be a few minutes."

"Oh, don't dress!" I begged. "You are all right. No one will see you but me and I've seen you mussed up before. Wash your hands and take off your apron and come and sit down. I'm dying for a good gossip."

"I must dress," she said firmly, looking at the clock. "It's almost time for the children to be home from school."

"The children?"

"Yes! I always dress for them. I want to look as pretty as I can when they come. You see—I sort of vamp them," she said, with a conscious flush. "I don't want my girl and boy to learn to think of me as just Mother, a useful piece of furniture that makes life comfortable and helps them with their lessons. I want them to think of me the most—or almost—the most beautiful thing in the world. It's a little conceit of mine, perhaps a little cowardice. Call it what you like, but I can't help thinking that when women lose their children's interest and love, it is often their own fault."

She went up and fixed her hair and put on a red dress. When the children came in they cried, "Oh, mother! How pretty you look. We love you!" How pretty you look. We love you! How pretty you look. We love you!

I've thought about that episode a lot since. I think it's a fine idea. They take such pride in us and need we always be commonplace to them? Sometimes yes! But when we're old, won't it be nice to hear them say, "My mother has always been the loveliest woman I ever knew."

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE Tynmites then left Boy Blue, since he had nothing more to do. His sheep and cows were safe and sound, so he went back to sleep. Before he closed his eyes he said, "Just take that roadway straight ahead, and when you reach the end of it, just climb the hillside steep."

"What will we find when we get there?" asked Clowdy. Then he said, "I guess that's just Boy Blue's queer style, but how he sleeps so very sound, I cannot understand."

"Oh, what do we care?" Copsy said. "He's tired, us, let's go ahead and climb the hill he told us to. Perhaps a thrill in store. There still are folks we have not met in this queer land, and say, I'll bet that someone lives atop that hill. That's what he told us for."

So, off they went, a happy crowd, and for a while rather proud to think that they could travel round to any place they liked. Though tired, they simply didn't mind as long as there were things to find. Nobody stopped to figure up how many miles they'd hiked.

The hill was very long and steep and Clowdy found it hard to keep up with the rest, 'cause he would stop to catch a breath or two. But, in about an hour or less, they reached the end of their distress, and perched upon the hilltop, all a-wondering what to do.

"Oh, look!" said Copsy. "Bel I know who that fair girl is, with the hoe, it's Mary, Mary Quite Contrary, in her garden patch." Then Mary motioned to the band and shouted, "Come and lend a hand, and help me cart my garden stuff. There's really quite a batch." (The Tynmites help Mary in the next story.)

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

In spite of the fact that she was hectically busy at least fourteen hours of the twenty-four, Faith Lane felt those last few days before the trial, that she was living in one of those terrible nightmares in which the dreamer is straining very hard to keep his eyes open, and something which is never done. Housework kept her busy for several hours a day, for Aunt Mattie had been called home to attend Grandma Lane, who had been stricken with influenza and pleurisy. There were her father, Junior and Joy to cook and sew for.

To show them a smiling, serene face was, of course, hardest of all, for Jim Lane's weak backbone had buckled under the double tragedy of his wife's death and his daughter's arrest on the charge of murder. All ambition he had ever had had deserted him. He crept, pale, haggard-faced, dull-eyed from the Myrtle street house at seven o'clock in the evening to go to his new job as night watchman for the Lincoln Fruit Wholesale grocery.

While her father slept uneasily, because he was not used to sleeping during the daytime, Faith whirled through dishwashing, bedmaking, getting Joy off to school, marketing for dinner, and the necessary mending and sewing. Afternoons she gave over to designing dresses, coats and lingerie for Madame Denise, the modiste who had made Cherry's trousseau. For Madame Denise had been as good as her word. Although she could not let it be known that she was employing the sister of an alleged murderer, Madame Denise established a profitable connection with Faith, meeting her surreptitiously to receive the designs which the harassed sister found time to create for the modiste's fashionable clients.

Christmas came and went, marked by two important events only. First was a family reunion in the reception room of the jail, Joy being allowed to see her sister, Cherry, for the first time since the day of her mother's funeral. Cherry was white and silent, and her childish mouth quivered whenever she spoke. When a small band of Salvation Army workers passed through the corridors singing Christmas anthems, Cherry broke down for the first time, flinging herself to the floor at Faith's feet and screaming out her fear and terror of the ordeal that was looming ahead of her. No, it was not a cheerful Christmas, and Faith was almost hysterically glad when Mrs. Webb, the jail matron, told the white-faced, huddled group of Lanes that the visiting hour was over.

Beyond the whitening sidewalk lay a scrap of city park, dreary now with iron benches on which no one sat, littered with scraps of windblown newspapers and fruit peelings. The dry yellow stubble of the grass was rapidly being frosted over with great, soft, wet snowflakes. The few gaunt trees waved their leafless branches in angry defiance of the wintry blasts that assailed their dignity.

When the old man in charge of the little flimsy wooden structure that housed the newsstand did not answer the honk of his horn, Bob sprang out of the car, and started to run across the wide sidewalk, head bent to protect his eyes from the stinging, assailing wind and snow. Faith, watching him fidget, saw him stop short, then bend to stare at something on the pavement.

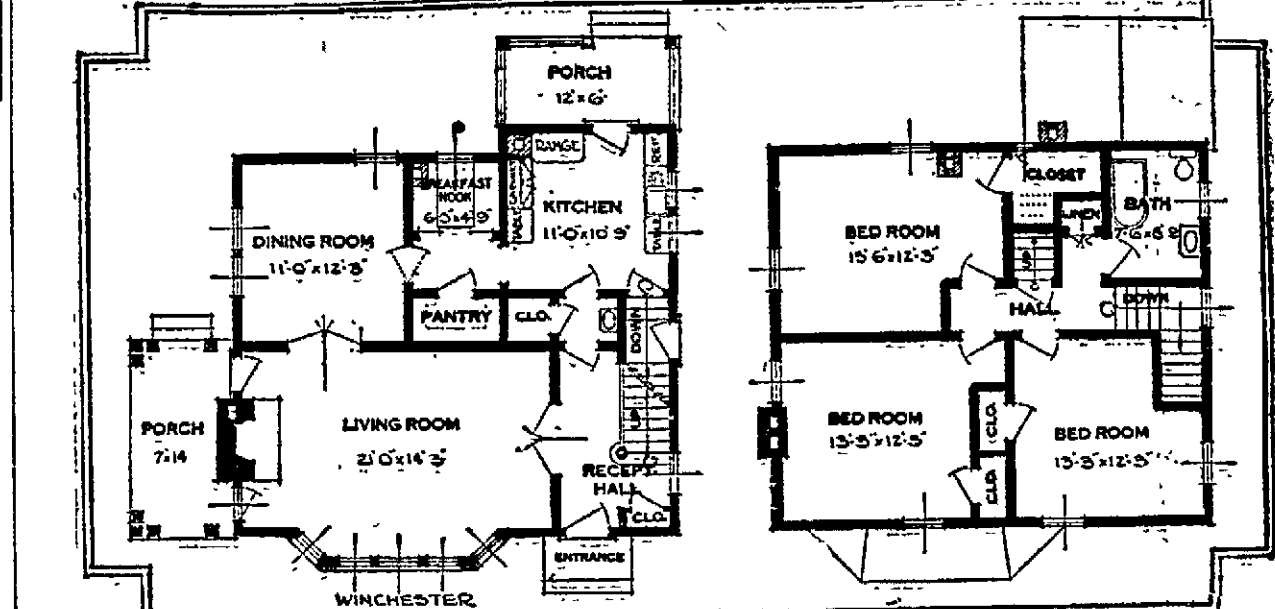

"What is it, Bob?" she called out,

SALT CEREALS

Always salt the water in which cereals are to be cooked, before the water boils.

CALUMET

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSCOMMITTEES WORK
HARD TO BE READY FOR FAIR OPENING

Hundreds of Prizes Will Be Awarded Exhibitors at Winter Exposition

Kaukauna—With but three days left before the opening of the mid-winter fair every committee connected with the fair is rushing its work so that everything will be in readiness for the opening on Thursday morning. Prizes have been solicited and will be awarded for the various exhibits.

Three speakers from the University of Wisconsin will talk to the farmers in the afternoon on taxes and other farm problems. This feature of the fair alone is expected to attract many farmers here on the fair days, March 17 and 18.

The health clinic will be held in the council chambers in the municipal building. Prominent doctors will be in charge of the clinic and free examinations will be given. This was the most popular of the numerous features at last year's fair.

Two hundred prizes in merchandise and cash will be awarded for farm exhibits. Nearly fifty different kinds of farm produce will be exhibited. The honey exhibit will hold a prominent place in the farm display.

The people attending the fair will have an opportunity to see the latest types and styles of cars on Thursday afternoon. Starting at 5 o'clock many of the cars, representing every automobile dealer in the city will form into a parade and pass over the principal business streets.

In the afternoon and evening there will be entertainment at the auditorium. A magician has been secured to amuse the crowd and besides there will be many vocal and instrumental acts. The Kaukauna Moose band will play.

STREET OILING UP AT COUNCIL MEETING

Aldermen Expected to Consider Matter of Railroad Park at Tuesday Meeting

Kaukauna—The city council will meet Tuesday evening in the council chambers in the municipal building to consider the park adjacent to the Chicago and Northwestern railroad property on the south side, at the corner of Main-ave and Second-st. Mayor W. C. Sullivan has expressed the opinion that the city will take care of the park this spring. In the last two years the park has been an eyesore to the south side business district with the grass standing foot or more high and weeds all over the place. Little attempt was made to take care of the park. It is the mayor's plan to have it cleaned up and perhaps put a bench or two in the park.

Action probably will be taken on the type of oil to be used on the street. Chemical salts were used last year and while the weather was nice and it didn't rain the salts acted nice keeping the roads moist and free from dust. But as soon as it rained the salts were washed away and it was necessary to go over the roads again. Salts are only supposed to be sprinkled on the roads twice a year and to do so more often is too expensive in the opinion of Mayor W. C. Sullivan. It is his belief that Kaukauna is too hilly for that type of salt and that it is better to return to the old method of oiling the streets.

SMITHMEN READY TO MEET APPLETON TEAM

Electric City Crew Hopes to Keep Lutz Covered in the Second Meeting

Kaukauna—Kaukauna High school will meet Appleton high in basketball on the local auditorium floor at 8:30 Tuesday evening. The College City team defeated the Orange and Black by a small score at Appleton a month ago. Appleton finished in second place in the Fox River valley conference and has one of the strongest basketball teams in the valley. Because of a new valley conference ruling the team did not participate in a district tournament this year. Appleton's scoring machine is led by "Herbie" Lutz, the second highest scorer in the valley conference. Lutz is an all around player and one of the main cogs in the Orange and Black machine. If the Kawmen can keep Lutz covered they may win the game.

Kaukauna lost two games in the Menasha district tournament by two points each. Both conquering teams finished well up in the tournament with New London taking second place after losing to Menasha in the final game. Captain Lutz played a good whirlwind of a game for Kaukauna at the tournament and was its most consistent scorer making more than half the 35 points made by the squad in two games. Ester and McFadden also played well in the first line and Nole looked good on defense.

A team of hard fighters from Menasha high school, taught by Coach Nathan Calder, staged a final quarter spurt Saturday evening that was not to be denied to capture the Appleton district cage tournament held at Menasha. Starting the quarter with a 11-10 lead over New London high, the Pails scored the points while holding the Edison city boys to six, and the trip to Madison, the first ever made by a Menasha high five, was won.

New London started out fast and took a 6-2 lead at the quarter. In the second period Menasha came back and closed the half leading, 9-8. The teams fought evenly in the third period which ended 11-10 for the Pails. Soon after the start of the final period Menasha took the lead and was headed through baskets by Dornbach and Hetzer and a pair of free tries put the Edison's a ringer behind with a minute to go. Another New London basket tied the score but it was not counted and then Klutz put the game on ice with an under-the-hoop shot when Menasha broke up a New London pass near the Edison hoop.

Godhardt's second-half comeback featured Menasha's play and gave the Pails the game. The lanky blonde, a main cog in the Blue and White offense, had scored but two free throws in the first half, so close was New London guarding, but in the final period he dropped three perfect markers to aid in his team's win. New London felt the loss of Seims, regular guard, who succumbed to personal early in the last half and the Pail offense made many shots from his position.

Klutz shot free out of five free tries to keep his team in the fight the third three periods and then added the final basket. Vetter's long basket from beyond midfloor and the guarding of Ryan and Webster also featured Menasha's play. For New London, the work of Dornbach and Hetzer, the best-balanced pair of forwards in the district, featured. Each had three baskets and played great floor games to keep their team in the running to the end. Becker, Seims and Cooley worked well on defense. New London made but 9 of 13 free throws, another factor in its downfall, while Menasha won the game in this department with 10 of 12. The Pails were outscored in baskets, 65.

NEW HOLSTEIN THIRD
In the first game of the evening, New Holstein's speed boys handed West De Pere a lesson in basketball by almost perfect shooting from all parts of the DePere territory and beyond. The Holstein boys lead all the way, but went on a basket rampage in the final period to win 22-10 after holding a three-point margin most of the game. New Holstein also won the appearance banner donated by the Menasha Kiwanis club and DePere took the sportsmanship banner of the Rotary club.

New Holstein lead 6-3 at the quarter, 8-5 at the half and 13-10 at the third quarter. Bosma scored four baskets for the winners and added a free throw, beside playing a good defensive game, while Helt, Gremmer and Weber divided the remaining points between them. The shooting of Helt and all-around play of Weber featured.

For DePere W. Van Sistine and Van Vemert, the guards, featured. Beau-regarde, who had been a strong factor in bringing the DePere five near the top, fell down badly and was unable to score a single point.

OCONTO FALLS MAN WANTS WEAVER BACK

A. P. Lehner Says Buck Didn't Have Fair Deal; Should Be Reinstated

Why hasn't Buck Weaver, former Chicago White Sox shortstop, been returned to good standing by Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball? Adolph P. Lehner, Oconto Falls seeks an answer to the question. He has sent the following letter to a Milwaukee newspaper.

I am interested as a reader of your paper in the application of Buck Weaver for reinstatement in organized baseball.

Buck Weaver was suspended from organized baseball in 1920 due to the White Sox scandal. He was not connected in any way directly or indirectly and received no money in that matter. The most that can be said against him is that he had knowledge of the crooked series and did not give this information to the officials of the club or others. The record shows that he played wonderful baseball in the series, in fact, he was one of the outstanding stars. There is no evidence against him except that of those who were crooked. He was cleared in court and his record in the series was miles above suspicion. He has always denied being in any complicity of any of the crooked things that were pulled off in the series. It seems to me that as a matter of fairness Judge Landis should make a decision on his application. The evidence against him is not as strong as was the evidence against Cobb or Speaker or any one of the others who have been cleared. It was no stronger, in fact, not as strong as the evidence against George Kelly, or Ross Younger or Frankie Frisch. All of these have been cleared. Why doesn't Weaver get the same square deal?

The sporting papers of the country are a powerful influence for good and it seems to me that they ought to take up the matter in their columns to force a decision in the matter. I would suggest that you take this matter up in the columns of your paper and that you hammer away at it until a decision is made. Both Weaver and the public are entitled to it.

M'GINNIS LEADS CARDS TO BANNER

Badger Captain Takes 3 Firsts, Breaks Mark, in Big Ten Classic

Madison—Amassing a total of 23 points, ten more than its nearest foe, the University of Wisconsin in track team lowered the curtain on the Western Conference Indoor track meet at Evanston last week with a sterling victory.

Captain "Chuck" McGinnis attached another medal to the Cardinal banner by claiming individual honors. The Badger pilot carried off three firsts and shattered the standing record in the high jump, held for several years by Davey Alberts of Illinois, by clearing the bar at six feet, five inches.

"Pat" Dougan, another Cardinal runner, proved to be the surprise in the 440 event. He took the lead from Kriss of Ohio State at the last lap of the race and breezed in an easy winner in the fair time of 32.2. In the time trial he covered the course in 50.8, excellent time for the meet Saturday afternoon.

The beautiful display of running and jumping by the Cardinal track members was a distinct feature of the Big Ten cinder classic. Coach "Tom" Jones' Badgers vindicated themselves of a second rating given them by several critics, by their decisive victory.

M'GRAW ASKS BOYS TO "SHOW HIM HOW"

Little Nap Not as Confident of Winning Flag as His Giant Ball Club

Sarasota, Fla. — (P)—New York Giants who admit they make up the best club in the National League, have been warned by Manager John J. McGraw, they must prove it.

McGraw reminds his players that while he appreciates their desire to give him an eleventh pennant, unfortunately they cannot celebrate his silver jubilee in March. It comes later in the year.

Giants enter the race with both credits and debits. Three new stars have been taken on to replace three heroes of other days. Only two have joined the club. Of the missing trio, two will lend their talents to other clubs and one will spend a portion of the season on a sick bed.

Rogers Hornsby, fresh from a world championship victory at the head of the St. Louis Cardinals, in his new capacity as captain of Giants, has rounded into an early shape that is inspired only by sore ankles. This temporary discomfort will have passed away before seasons play starts.

Hornsby, happy in his new role, has worked as hard as any rookie and faces his task of making the New York fans forget Frankie Frisch with confidence. Frisch at the same time will be trying to make St. Louis fans forget Hornsby.

Ed Roush is expected to be in the lineup at the start of the season. "Memphis Bill" Terry, understudy to George Kelly, has rounded into satisfactory form.

Burleigh Grimes, after nine years in a Brooklyn uniform, is ready to head the pitching staff. Grimes, a spit ball pitcher, is not ready to throw just yet.

Pitchers from last year expected to be in Giant uniforms again include Barnes, Fitzsimmons, Greenfield, McQuillan and Bentley.

The club will start with a new catching staff. Both Cummings, purchased from Wheeling of the Middle Atlantic League, and Doremus obtained the same way from Louisville, have made a favorable impression in training and are regarded as certain to remain.

Castro, a Cuban star has shown good form. Infield is firmly set with Terry at First base, Hornsby at second, Jackson at short and Lindstrom at third. Carroll will play a utility role again, and George Hartley, a youngster of outstanding ability may stick around.

Enough outfielders are in camp to make up a team including substitutes. When, and if, Roush reports, he will play center, and Lebourveau's spring

OLD BLUE GRAPPLER COACHES TITLE TEAM

Beaver Dam — Beaver Dam high school wrestling team has an undisputed claim to the Little Ten conference mat title. They defeated by a considerable margin all of the wrestling teams in the Little Ten besides teams outside their league. They were not defeated during the last season and piled up a total of 99 points to their opponents' 42, winning 13 out of 19 matches.

The team owes no small amount of its success to the coaching of Ralph W. Thomas, former Lawrence college mat star. He was on the varsity team at Lawrence for three seasons and held the wrestling championship in his class.

His team holds two victories over the strong Watertown team, coached by another former Lawrence mat luminary, Mark Anderson, a team-mate of Thomas. The Fond du Lac Y. M. C. A. also fell victims to the local grapplers' holds twice.

Although the men will box within the class limit of 140-pounds, the state boxing commission has refused to accept the classification of the match as a title affair. A diamond-studded belt, emblematic of the championship and valued at $2,500 rests in Rickard's safe as an additional prize for the winner. Disposal of the trophy probably will await further action of the commission.

Divodi, clever boxer and smart ring general, is a slight favorite. The training works of Callahan have impressed local observers with his punching power and stamina. Callahan won the title from its first holder, Pinky Mitchell of Milwaukee.

LANDIS SAYS WEAVER CAN NOT COME BACK

Chicago — (P)—Baseball scandals, once closed, must stay that way. Commissioner Landis has ruled in refusing the application of Buck Weaver, former Chicago third baseman for reinstatement.

Weaver was one of the seven White hitting has won him first consideration for left. This combination leaves half a dozen, including Mueller, Harper, Tyson and Moore fighting for right.

Sox fired from baseball forever for the 1919 crooked world series and 1920 day he had a letter from the Commissioner advising him that the decision of four years ago against him would not be reviewed.

STOPS ON THE LIMERICK LIMITED The Latest in Limericks Viewed from Observation Car

Dear Editor: My sweetheart, Helen I might be putting on weight every day. I have tried to reason with her, but she only laughs. Won't you say something to her? —Fred Bartlett.

Dear Fred: It seems to me that you are lucky to have a girl with such a jolly disposition! These are my sentiments—THERE WAS A PLUMP LADY NAMED HAIGHT, WHO WEIGHED IN AT TWO-TWENTY-EIGHT. THEN SAID WITH A GRIN, "THOUGH I KNOW IT'S A SIN, I ALWAYS MAKE LIGHT OF MY WEIGHT!"

Dear Mr. Judell: Our friend Dave Chappell swears that as long as women are admitted to barber shops he won't go into one of them! How can he get by? Say it with limericks, Ellen and Anna Tristwell.

TWO SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO COLLISION DUE TO HEAVY FOG

Clayton Kellogg Suffers Broken Leg and Severe Cuts; Milwaukee Woman Injured

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Two persons were seriously injured and two others miraculously escaped injury Saturday evening when two sedans driven by Carl Mason of this city and by Oscar Delzer of Milwaukee, collided head-on on highway 26, just south of Greenville. Mr. Mason with his two passengers, Lewis Barlow and Clayton Kellogg, youths of 14 years, were on their way to attend the final game of the district high school basketball tournament at Menasha. The fog was unusually heavy, making visibility for any distance ahead impossible. When the party had just passed Greenville, the Milwaukee car appeared directly in front of them and although Mr. Mason who was driving slowly on the right side of the highway, swerved further toward the edge of the concrete, the other car was not able to right its position and the collision resulted. Young Kellogg was thrown against the dash board with such force that his left leg was broken above the knee. He also received severe cuts on the lower lip and left hand, about thirty stitches being necessary to close the wounds. Mr. Mason was thrown against the steering wheel, the force of the impact breaking the metal spokes. While he suffered no broken bones, his chest was severely bruised and left knee badly injured.

ON WAY TO FUNERAL

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Delzer were the only occupants of the other car, and were on their way to this city, having been called here by the death of the former's sister, Mrs. J. H. Beaumier. Mr. Delzer was uninjured, but Mrs. Beaumier suffered bad lacerations above and below the right eye. A number of stitches were required to close the wound.

NEW LONDON SECOND IN MENASHA TOURNAMENT

Loses to Menasha, 20 to 16, in Final Game Because of Poor Free Throw Shots

New London—New London high lost to Menasha Saturday evening in the final game of the interscholastic basketball tournament, which was played at the Menasha armory gymnasium. The score was 20 to 16. Inability to make the extra points necessary on free throws cost the Red and White a victory and gave them second place in the tournament. Dropped out to lose by a wide margin, Poloms' team ran the Menasha squad ragged at times. Long shots by Hetzer, and Cooley, and some short passing from Cooley to Dornbach kept the New London fans in an uproar. The Menasha boys had a smooth passing attack, a good defense, and showed that they had been well coached.

JUDGE SENTENCES SHIOCTON YOUTH TO REFORMATORY

Earl Wing Pleads Guilty to Forgery; Companion Is Discharged

Pleading guilty to forgery, Earl Wing, 21 years old, Shiocton, Monday morning was sentenced from one to two years in the state reformatory at Green Bay by Judge Theodore Berg. Wing waived preliminary examination when arraigned last Saturday morning in municipal court. Sheriff Otto H. Zuehlke was to take him to Green Bay Saturday afternoon.

A plea to Judge Berg to be lenient with his companion, Eugene Carpenter, 17 town of Cicero, probably saved the latter from jail sentence. The Cicero youth Saturday morning pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon, but Judge Berg deferred passing sentence until Monday morning.

Wing explained that the revolver which Carpenter had been carrying had been in the possession of the latter only about a half hour. The revolver belonged to Wing, he told Judge Berg.

After reprimanding the youth, the Judge advised him to return home and go to work. The father was in court and promised to take the son home.

The young men were arrested last Wednesday morning at Kimberly by Chief George T. Jrim and officer Albert P. Delgent.

Wing had attempted to cash a $15 check with Henry Techlin, who operates a filling station at the corner of N. Richmond-st and W. Wisconsin-ave. Tuesday night. They had driven away and walked to the station, ordering a gallon of gasoline.

The attendant told them to bring their automobile to the station. While they were gone, Mr. Techlin called up the bank on which the check was drawn to determine if it was good. While the bank official was checking up on the name, the youths returned and were given a gallon of gasoline. In the meantime it was determined that the person whose name was on the check had no account at the bank, and Mr. Techlin was so informed by the telephone. While he was answering the telephone, however, the youths left.

They were using an automobile belonging to a Kimberly resident, with whom they had left their own machine for repairs. Police had their description, and found them the following morning at the telephone.

They also were suspected of being the same persons who drove up to a filling station at Black Creek a week ago last Sunday night, ordering seven gallons of gasoline and then driving away without paying for the fuel. One of the occupants of this automobile pointed the revolver at the station attendant to prevent him from interfering with their departure. The youths steadfastly denied this affair, however.

Wing admitted to Judge Berg that he is now on parole in Waupaca-co.

Frisco and Western Pacific the early favorite. Atchison declined to load ground on selling inspired by recent Storey's denial of recent dividend rumors. Texas Gulf Sulphur and Eureka Vacuum sold at the highest prices in years but renewed pressure against Storey's denial of recent dividend rumors. French francs just above 180 cents, and Spanish pesetas at the highest level in years around 17 1/2 cents.

DEVELOP SOFT SPOTS

The retreat of the bear faction accounted for the rapid rise in particular stocks, but the general list nevertheless developed an increasing number of soft spots as the morning session advanced. The decline in Atchison, Pere Marquette, Gulf Mobile and Northern Continental Banking A. Warner Pictures A. and South Porto Rico Sugar, which lost 2 1/2 points, absorption of many of the rubbers and a sprinkling of the sulphur and tobacco shares reflected the general decline in the market. The renewal rate on call loans was continued at 4 per cent.

BARNUM CHOSEN ON COACHES STAR TEAM

Badger Captain Place on 2nd
Squad; High Scorers on 1st
Quintet

Chicago—Six of the Western Conference basketball stars were virtually unanimous selections of the coaches of the Big Ten for all-conference honors in a summary of the coaches selections compiled Sunday night by the Associated Press.

Five of the six were the leading five in the conference list of point scorers while McConnell, Iowa's famous back guard who naturally had fewer opportunities at the basket, ranked fifteenth in the list of 194 Big Ten players of the season.

Compared with the total points of the champion Michigan team 414, these six gathered 645 points.

Beunle Osterbann, Michigan, and "Pug" Daugherty, Illinois captain, were the outstanding choices of the conference coaches for first team forwards. They ranked third and fourth in the point total of Big Ten players.

Cummins of Purdue was the general favorite for all-conference center. He led the Big Ten in points scored this season, winding up the conference schedule in a scoring burst that carried him to the top, averaging 15 points a game in Purdue's last three games, and helping his team to a tie with Indiana for second place.

While McConnell of Iowa was the choice of nearly all the coaches for back guard, Captain Bill Hunt of Ohio and Frank Harrigan of Michigan ran a close race for the running guard honors of the conference.

In votes as a guard, Hunt was ahead of Harrigan, but the Michigan players versatility was recognized with votes for every position on the team. Hunt led Harrigan by three field goals and two free throws in the point standing.

McConnell of Iowa led all the players of the conference in the votes of the coaches for his position, eight of the ten coaches placing him on the first team and two on the second team, while the other five of the favored six were one or two votes short of unanimity.

Beckner, Indiana forward who led the conference in scoring last year, and Rollie Barnum, Wisconsin guard and captain, were the outstanding choices of the conference coaches for their positions. Second choice among conference centers was fairly evenly divided by Wilcox, Iowa, Sibley, Indiana, and Fisher, Northwestern. Wilcox led Fisher by nine points in total scoring and Sibley by twenty points.

Of these two Hunt Daugherty, Barnum and Beckner have finished their conference competition.
